BRITISH SHIP SHELLED IN BAY OF BISCAY

SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA HAS EARTH SHOCKS

Towns East of Inlet Feel Tremors; Bottles Topped From Shelves

Many Autos Cross From Oakland Side

Associated Press

San Francisco, March 8.—Residents of the San Francisco Bay region were shaken from sleep by an earthquake early today. The shock knocked articles from shelves and walls in east bay cities.

Officers at the Albany police station and the sheriff's office in Martinez declared the movement in those east bay communities was the sharp-est they had felt since the 1906 San Francisco disaster. The tremors were felt at 2:32 a.m.

The quake started an Albany burglar alarm ringing and a radio station broadcast that a bank had been blown up. Police said the report was incorrect.

Bottles on liquor store shelves were shaken to the floor and broken in an Albany store. A crowd of men gathered in front of the store waiting for the proprietor in hopes of helping dispose of the salvage.

Many telephone calls were received at the office of Dr. Perry Beyer, seismologist of the University of California, said the seismograph at Berkeley indicated the quake centre was "within twenty, probably fifteen miles."

He said the fact the movement appeared more severe on the East Bay side, would seem to indicate it was caused by a slipping of what is known as the Hayward Fault.

BISHOP SAYS HIS FAREWELL

Rt. Rev. J. H. MacDonald Honored By Congregation Before His Departure

Rt. Rev. J. H. MacDonald, for the last two and a half years Bishop of Victoria, said farewell to Victoria yesterday evening as he boarded the midnight steamer for Vancouver, en route to Edmonton, where he will become Coadjutor Archbishop, with the right of succession and the title Archbishop of Mexico.

Three hours before he stood in St. Andrew's Cathedral and expressed to a large congregation his keen regret at leaving Victoria, where he said he had been very happy.

His congregation honored him during the evening service with a formal address, read by C. H. O'Halloran, K.C. In it was expressed the best wishes of the Catholic laity for the Bishop's future happiness and success.

Mr. O'Halloran also made a presentation to Bishop MacDonald on behalf of the congregation.

Following the Pontifical Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, Archbishop MacDonald repaired to the Bishop's Palace where a large number of persons called informally to bid him farewell and Godspeed.

Aviation Trophy Given Matt Berry

Trans-Canada Award For 1936 Goes to Veteran Who Flies Into Northland From Edmonton

Canadian Press

Ottawa, March 8.—A. Massey Berry, outstanding northland flier of Edmonton, has been awarded the Trans-Canada Trophy for his services to aviation in 1936, the Department of National Defence announced today.

One of the most prized aviation awards in the Dominion, the trophy is presented annually to the Canadian pilot who makes the greatest contribution to advancing the cause of aviation. It was donated by the late Dalzell McKee.

Roosevelt Dines and Speaks

A few minutes after the above picture was taken during the Democratic victory dinner in a Washington hotel the other evening President Roosevelt was delivering the speech, broadcast to all parts of the United States and heard also in Canada, in which he urged the people of the republic to line up behind him in his effort to reform the Supreme Court to clear the way for progressive measures. At Mr. Roosevelt's right sat Postmaster-General James A. Farley.

Canada - Alaska Fish Protective Moves Are Urged

U.S. Senate Hears Schwellenbach, Seattle, Suggest Declaration to Japanese and Others Continental Shelf Is Canadian-U.S. Fishing Area

Associated Press

Washington, March 8.—Senator L. B. Schwellenbach of Washington state pictured in the United States Senate today a threatened invasion of north Pacific fishing grounds by Japanese, British and Norwegian ships.

Senator Schwellenbach, contending the future of the fishing industry in British Columbia, Alaska and the states of California, Oregon and Washington were menaced, warned any "invasion" of waters protected and built up by international treaty would bring retaliation from United States and Canadian fishermen.

A proposal that the United States and Canada join in a declaration that the north Pacific continental shelf should be their exclusive fishing grounds would run afoul of the international three-mile limit usage, Senator Schwellenbach admitted, but he urged that it should not be "thrust aside without searching consideration."

Wide Possibilities
"This problem contains potentialities which may more seriously threaten the peace of the United States than any other on the immediate horizon," he said.

Urging that executive action be taken toward an understanding, he added, however, that "our present extremely friendly relationship with the nations involved should assure us that we can and should avoid controversy."

BATTERIES AT ALBERT HEAD

Defence Programme to Include Fortification of Straits

With military experts now surveying sites for gun emplacements and fortifications along the West Coast, it is becoming more apparent that Vancouver Island will hold the key position in Canada's new West Coast defence programme.

It is now reported from Ottawa that in the neighborhood of $7,000,000 will be spent on the B.C. coast and a large part will be on the island. Besides the big munitions base at Esquimalt, and two military airbases an entirely new and powerful fortification is proposed in the Albert Head area, about fifteen miles from the city.

Guns stationed there would have the twofold purpose of commanding the entrance to the Straits of Juan de Fuca and would draw the attention of hostile forces away from the city.

The city itself will be protected by anti-aircraft batteries and the present guns at signal hill in Esquimalt will be modernized, it is reported.

The construction of emplacements for the various batteries along the coast, including Prince Rupert, Johnstone Strait and island points, will cost upwards of $1,000,000, it is stated. The guns probably will not be put in place until next year.

SUDDEN DEATH OF GEO. FOWLES

Proprietor of Balmoral Hotel Died While Picking Flowers Sunday

Suffering a fatal seizure while picking wild flowers at his summer home at Cadboro Bay, George Thurlow Fowles, proprietor of the Balmoral Hotel, passed away very suddenly yesterday afternoon, age sixty-six years.

Mr. Fowles was born in England, and was a well-known business man at Banff before coming to Victoria, eleven years ago. He was a member of Premier Lodge Loyal Orange Order No. 1810.

He is survived by his widow, who is on her way home after visiting in Banff, and one sister in England. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Equality Basis For Japan And China

Foreign Minister Cheered in Diet When He Announces "New Deal" Which Includes No Territorial Aggression

Associated Press
Tokyo, March 8.—Japan disavowed any intention of territorial aggression in China today, and pledged herself to a new policy built on a keystone of "equality" in dealing with her great continental neighbor.

Foreign Minister Naotake Sato launched Japan on the "New Deal" for China to the cheers of a Parliament stirred by his announcement.

Japan, he declared in a maiden speech on his policy, must abandon her superiority complex in order to readjust her long-standing relations with China.

On that principle of "a fresh start on the basis of equality," he asserted he would build the policy of Japan's Foreign Office, which he has just taken over.

Japan has no territorial ambitions in China," Sato stressed, labelling as "imaginary" any fear Japan intended to "go beyond the Great Wall and extend its influence to central or south China."

"Japan respects Chinese interests and wishes to shake hands with them economically," he declared. "That is the only way Japan can expand there."

Economic Necessity
Sato, who resigned as ambassador to France to accept the Foreign Affairs post, said Japan's economic situation was such that it would be forced to accept the Foreign Affairs post, said Japan's economic situation was such that it would be forced to accept the Foreign Affairs post.

STRIKES CALLED IN AUTO PLANTS

Chrysler Corporation Factories at Detroit Closed; Hudson and Packard Works Affected; Second Settlement By Chevrolet

Associated Press
Detroit, March 8.—Richard T. Frankenstein, organizational director of the United Automobile Workers of America, announced this afternoon that strikes had been called in all major units of the Chrysler Corporation in Detroit.

The announcement climaxed a day of rapid-fire developments which included a strike, settled later, in the Chevrolet Motor Company plant at Flint, and strikes in the Hudson Motor Car Company and the Packard Motor Car Company plants in Detroit, and the refusal of Chrysler Corporation officials to recognize the U.A.W. as sole collective bargaining agency in its plants.

Affecting the Chrysler strike were the Plymouth, De Soto, Dodge and Chrysler plants.

The main Chrysler plant in Highland Park, scene of negotiations between the union and the corporation, still was operating at 2:10 p.m., but a company official said he understood a strike was to become effective there soon.

A sit-down strike affecting 5,500 to 9,000 of the 10,000 employees of the Hudson Motor Car Company closed.

THIEVES MAKE BIG CASH HAUL

Thieves who broke into Kirkham's Grocery Store, Fort Street, over the week-end stole nearly $1,000 in cash, cheques totalling nearly $1,200 and a valuable gold ring, according to a city police report.

The theft was reported to city police yesterday morning. Entry was gained between closing time Saturday and 9:45 o'clock yesterday morning.

According to police investigations the thieves gained access to the store by way of the Chamber of Commerce and the use of a ten-foot ladder to reach the skylight of the store.

Two panes of glass were removed from the skylight.

The knob was knocked off the safe and it was opened by using a punch through the dial hole. Three cheques in denominations of $500, $500 and $50, and a number of smaller ones were taken, in addition to nearly $1,000 cash, $3 or $4 worth of stamps and a gold ring set with a diamond, valued at $125.

CRAFT RUSH TO RESCUE PASSENGERS

Fire Sweeps Ship at First Said to Be Elder Dempster African Liner Adda, Though That Vessel Is Reported in English Waters; Spanish Warcraft Which Made Attack North of Bilbao Not Identified; British and French Destroyers and Fishing Craft Speed to Save Lives

Associated Press

Bordeaux, France, March 8.—Four British destroyers were reported standing by a burning, sinking British merchantman ninety miles out in the Bay of Biscay today after the ship had reported she was bombed by a "vessel of unknown nationality."

A series of desperate SOS calls also sent a fleet of French fishing boats and tugs to the scene, apparently in the regular ship lane between the mouth of the Gironde and Cape Ortegal.

CONFUSION IN SHIP'S SOS

Associated Press

London, March 8.—Admiralty sources expressed doubt tonight that the ship, which wirelessed she was burning and sinking after a bombardment in the Bay of Biscay, was the 7,816-ton British African steamship Adda.

They said the Adda was reported proceeding between Plymouth and Liverpool. They could not explain how it happened the distressed ship used the Adda's international call letters.

Raw Materials Conference Starts

Canadian Press from Havas
Geneva, March 8.—The League of Nations conference on raw materials opened today, with Germany and Italy unrepresented.

Japan was unofficially represented by Yasudo Shudo, commercial attaché at Berlin.

Norman Roberts was named to represent Canada.

Discussions were to begin this afternoon with Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British Treasury expert, and Shudo scheduled to speak.

C. Zolotoohin Yacht Accident Victim

Russian-Canadian Newspaperman, Husband of Victoria Girl, Drowned Off Coast of England

Canadian Press from Havas
Exmouth, Eng., March 8.—Constantine Zolotoohin, adventurous Russian newspaperman and former member of the Alberta provincial police, was found drowned yesterday on the shore of the river Exe. He is survived by his widow, who resides in Victoria, B.C., with her mother, Mrs. J. Goulay Lang, 2638 Rosebery Avenue.

His empty yacht, the Roma, was discovered stranded on sands opposite where the body was found. Apparently he took to a small boat when a storm drove the yacht ashore. It is believed another person was drowned as well, but the body has not been found.

He was believed en route from Dartmouth to Bristol when the storm broke.

Unrest in India Border Region

Canadian Press from Havas
London, March 8.—Serious unrest exists in the province of Waziristan, Northwestern India, Sir Aubrey Metcalfe, Foreign Secretary in the Government of India, told the Legislative Assembly at New Delhi today, according to a Reuters' News Agency dispatch.

Sir Aubrey said 500,000 (450,000) had been spent on military operations in the frontier region during 1936 and this year.

Prorogation By Easter Rumored

But as Parliament Enters Last Stretch, Predictions of End of Session Vary From March 28 to April 15

Ottawa, March 8.—Parliament today was poised for a drive to the finish line of a session that started January 14, and must end or be adjourned in time to allow the nation's representatives to reach London for the coronation, May 12.

Some lobby gossip predicted prorogation by Easter, March 28, others suggested mid-April as the session's ending time. The budget debate on which first vote may come tomorrow

The name of the stricken ship variously was received at first as the Adda, a vessel of more than 7,816 tons gross, or the Aba, a much smaller ship.

She reported "bombarded by vessel of unknown nationality"—"on fire"—"sinking slowly by bow."

The destroyers were preparing to try to take off the passengers, later advised stated.

Four French fishing boats also were reported virtually at the ship's position and authorities rushed a French destroyer from Rochefort to the scene.

CALL LETTERS OF ADDA
The latest messages gave the call letters of the sinking vessel as "GJPR," which are those of the Adda, in the African service.

They said the fire still was burning aboard the ship and that "passengers"—the number unstated—still were aboard. The ship was hit below the loading.

One message read: "We are lost—fire aboard—there are passengers—we ask help."

There was no more word of the attacking vessel, presumably a participant in the intense Spanish air and sea warfare which has ravaged the broad and busy bay for months.

HASTEN TO MAKE RESCUES
Hope the passengers could be removed before the ship sank was expressed in messages received in Bordeaux from the rescue ships.

The fishing boat Caneleky reported she was "alongside the ship, which she identified as the Adda. She said the vessel was listing heavily and apparently sinking, although slowly."

Shipping sources said the Adda left an African port February 25 on her way to Liverpool—her port of registry.

Associated Press
London, March 8.—Four British destroyers were rushed at forced draft through the Bay of Biscay today to the point where a vessel believed to be the British motorship Adda sent out an SOS, reporting she had been bombed and was sinking.

One version of the SOS said the ship reported she was being raked from fore and aft by fire from "an unidentified warship."

The SOS was received both by Lloyds, the great marine underwriters, and by the Coast Office at Gironde wireless station in France.

"Fire aboard—sinking" said the message picked up by Lloyds. The position given was roughly about ninety miles out in the Bay.

The Admiralty announced the destroyers Echo, Eclipse, Encounter and Escapade were heading to the scene.

OUT OF LIVERPOOL
The motorship Adda is a vessel of 7,816 gross tons, operated by the Elder Dempster Lines Ltd. out of Liverpool. She was built in 1922 at Greenock.

However, an official of the Elder Dempster Line here said "as far as we know" she was not in the area.

HIS LUMBAGO WENT IN TWO WEEKS

Never Felt Better In His Life

Though he tried many so-called remedies, this man continued to suffer from lumbago for years. It troubled him, in fact, until he found the right remedy. Kruschen Salts. These are his own words:—"I would like to tell you of the benefit I derived from taking Kruschen Salts. For some years past I have been a sufferer from lumbago. I tried no end of other remedies, but got no relief whatever until one day I saw Kruschen advertised and thought I would give it a trial. I did, and to my surprise the lumbago left me after taking Kruschen for a fortnight. I am now taking it regularly every day and never felt better in my life."—W.K. Kruschen is a combination of mineral salts which assist in stimulating your liver, kidneys and digestive tract to healthy, regular activity. If you could see how Kruschen dissolves away uric acid deposits, you would agree that the Kruschen treatment should bring relief in cases of lumbago.

Japanese interests, Senator Schwelbach said, having depleted fishing grounds off the coast of Siberia, have taken steps to send huge floating canneries into Alaska waters, which yield the bulk of the American supply.

SHIPS FITTED OUT

He said British and Norwegian financial groups planned to send the steamship Thorland into the north Pacific, where the United States and Canada had co-operated by treaty since 1924 to protect the supply of halibut.

Tracing international disputes which have arisen in America, Europe and Asia over fishery rights, Senator Schwelbach said the new difficulties "should incite the interest of the entire nation."

He contended they involved the future of the fishing industry of the north Pacific, where he listed conservation expenditures of $16,101,270 in the last decade.

Pointing to possible avenues of solution, he warned an incursion by outside interests would bring retaliation from United States and Canadian fishermen who felt they had a proprietary interest, including a possible boycott of the products of the nation concerned.

BUILT UP FOR YEARS

He served notice there would be strong objections to an international agreement merely permitting Japanese participation in fishing resources which "we and the Canadians have not only conserved but actually built up."

Expressing belief a way out could be found, the Democratic senator said he saw "a remarkable opportunity for this administration to perform a valuable service in taking leadership" in the matter.

The north Pacific industry in what he said was a typical year gave direct employment to 77,026 persons, and an income to the fishermen of $37,160,000, Alaska, he said, supplied about 80 per cent of United States requirements.

COMBINE COMMISSIONER

The Combines Act amendment would authorize appointment of a combines commissioner under jurisdiction of the Labor Minister.

The Foreign Enlistment Bill would prohibit Canadians taking part in any foreign wars, including civil conflict such as Spain's.

If Mr. Bennett's amendment reaches a vote tomorrow, debate will proceed in committee on the budget resolutions, but little opposition is expected and they may be approved in a day, it was said.

Some further government legislation is pending, notably a bill to establish a operating company for the trans-Canada Airway, and other measures already before Parliament have some distance to go before passage.

A. N. Doll, president of the local union, said 9,000 were engaged in the "sit-down."

He said all would remain in the plant until 3 p.m., and then most of the employees would march out for a mass demonstration, while a few selected men would continue to occupy the plant until a settlement should be reached.

The union's demands, he said, were recognition of Local 154, U.A.W.A., as sole bargaining agency, straight seniority, minimum wages of eighty-five cents an hour for men and seventy-five cents for women, and a blanket increase to make Hudson wages equal to those in other automobile plants.

CHEVROLET SETTLEMENT

Flint, Mich., March 8.—Robert Travis, United Automobile Workers' organizer, announced this afternoon the settlement of a strike that had closed four plants of the Chevrolet Motor Co. He said the men would return to work pending the completion of negotiations with company officials.

The strike, which started Saturday night but had been ended temporarily by an agreement to negotiate today, was resumed after the men had been at work an hour this morning.

Grievance which caused today's strike apparently was the speeding up of assembly lines. A foreman had been discharged because he refused to obey a speed-up order, it was charged.

British Ship Shelled In Bay of Biscay

we know, we have no ship in the position of the one given in the radio messages."

That position put the vessel almost exactly north of Bilbao, Spain.

DANGEROUS INCIDENTS

The SOS brought word of the latest of a series of dangerous international marine incidents growing out of attempts, both by the Spanish government and the Spanish insurgents, to keep foreign ships from reaching enemy ports.

The incidents have occurred off every Spanish coast, from the Bay of Biscay to the Strait of Gibraltar, and on east and north to the Catalan coast.

Recently three ships, one British, one French and one Greek, struck mines—with serious damage—and, in the case of the Greek ship, loss of life—off Catalonia, on the eastern or Mediterranean coast of Spain.

The incidents boded ill for the projected neutrality patrol of Spain by warships of Britain, France, Germany and Italy, which the International Non-Intervention Committee today decided to attempt on March 13.

The insurgent cruiser Canarias has been especially active in the Bay of Biscay area. Last Thursday that warship captured the Spanish government steamship Galdames, carrying 180 men, women and children, from an escort of armed government craft. Shells from the Canarias killed two women and four children aboard the Galdames. The rest were imprisoned in Spanish insurgent territory.

Dunning Speaks By Telephone From Ottawa With Lord Mayor of London in "Canada Calling" Campaign

Canadian Press

London, March 8.—The "Canada Calling" campaign today concentrated its appeal for greater British trade on the London market.

Four hundred London merchants attended a luncheon sponsored by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and heard an exchange of telephonic greetings between Hon. Charles Dunning, Canadian Minister of Finance, at Ottawa, and Sir George Broadbridge, Lord Mayor of London. Both urged greater reciprocal trade between the two countries.

Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, Secretary of State for the Dominions, proposed a loan to better reciprocal trade, and the Canadian High Commissioner, Hon. Vincent Massey, responded.

Canadian trade was advertised throughout London in the newspapers, on the thousands of omnibuses and by airplane streamers.

The "Canada Calling" campaign has already invaded Glasgow, Edinburgh, Liverpool, Cardiff, Leeds, Birmingham and Belfast with what Trade Commissioner Frederick Hudd terms "the most splendid results, surpassing our most optimistic hopes."

SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA HAS EARTH SHOCKS

He described the quake as "moderate" intensity.

The fault runs near the town of Hayward, about fifteen miles south of Berkeley and near all of the cities that reported the quake as strong.

SHARPLY SHAKEN

Hercules Logan, night deputy in the sheriff's office at Martinez, reported the quake shook the granite building "like it was nothing." He heard of no damage.

Thousands were awakened by the shock, which the coast guard station at Fort Point described as "sharp."

Toll collectors on the San Francisco-Oakland Bridge reported a marked pick-up in traffic shortly after the shock. They said motorists indicated they were in a hurry to leave the city.

Street lights were put out of commission in some east bay sections.

One resident of Richmond reported he was shaken out of his sleep.

The earthquake, which lasted not more than two or three seconds, came with a rolling motion in San Francisco and jolting shocks in the east bay region.

There was no record of the shock on the seismograph at the Victoria Observatory, according to W. A. Thorn, superintendent.

C. ZOLOTCHIN YACHT VICTIM

stood he was a correspondent in the Far East in recent years.

Constantine Serge Zolotochin, reported drowned at Ramoth, England, was married four years ago to Janet Arden Lang of Victoria. Mrs. Zolotochin did not accompany her husband when he left recently for England, but remained here with her mother, Mrs. J. Gourlay Lang.

PROMINENT FAMILY

Zolotochin, according to information here, was the son of a wealthy and socially prominent family in Russia during the Czarist regime. He was born in St. Petersburg in 1907.

His father was a general in the Russian Imperial Army and his mother a countess in her own right, which entitled Zolotochin to the rank of prince.

When the Russian revolution broke out in 1917 General Zolotochin was executed by the Bolsheviks. The widow and young son escaped to Scotland, later going to England, where Countess Zolotochin now lives.

CROSSED ATLANTIC

Zolotochin later came to Canada. Shortly after his marriage here, Zolotochin left for Montreal, where he was on the staff of The Montreal Herald. His wife joined him there for a time, but returned here when he left for London, presumably to accept a position with the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Solo last fall published a romantically inspired autobiography of his hazardous experiences, titled "Sentenced to Adventure." It was published in Britain and the United States. In it he recounted having to kill a man in the course of his duty. There is no record of his having killed a man in the course of his duty.

He was granted Canadian naturalization papers November 8, 1935.

To Investigate Crash of Bus

B.C. Police to Open Inquiry Into Plunge of Machine at Summerland

Canadian Press

Summerland, B.C., March 8.—British Columbia police in this interior Okanagan town prepared today to launch a formal investigation into the crash of a large bus and injury to its driver and twenty-one passengers.

No date for the inquiry had been set. Today workmen cut a roadway through scrub timber, pulled the vehicle back to the roadway fifteen feet above the shallow water of Okanagan Lake where it careened Saturday night, and towed it to Penticton.

Meanwhile, occupants of the bus recovered from their injuries in hospitals here and in Penticton.

Summerland patients, and latest hospital reports on their injuries, were:

Kenneth P. Caple, principal of the Summerland High School, leg lacerations.

Mrs. L. B. Gummow, wife of the bus driver, broken arm and face cuts.

Lillian Dalton, Kelowna, B.C., severe face cuts received when she was thrown through the windshield of the bus.

Mrs. Rose Elliott, Rock Creek, B.C., face cuts.

Russell Dalton, Kelowna, broken ankle.

Rose Leithman, Vancouver, broken nose.

Marion Miles, Kelowna school nurse, lacerations.

ALL RECOVERING

All Summerland patients were reported "progressing satisfactorily."

At the Penticton hospital were: Michael Murphy, driver of the bus, broken ribs and smashed jaw, reported progressing satisfactorily; and C. Loomer, vice-principal of Penticton School, recovering "as well as can be expected" from head injuries and a badly gashed knee.

REBELS SEEK TO CIRCLE MADRID

Heavy Attack to Northeast of City Seen as First of Drive

Associated Press

Madrid, March 8.—Insurgents launched a sharp attack today on Almadrones, in the upper Guadajara sector northeast of Madrid, apparently in an effort to encircle this besieged city from a new direction.

Gen. Jose Miaja, supreme commander of the government forces in the Madrid area, said his troops were "resting magnificently."

Gen. Miaja said he believed the insurgent thrust at Almadrones was only the first of several that would be launched by Gen. Francisco Franco's insurgent forces in an effort to sever another Madrid communication line and draw the siege cordon tighter.

Government forces, he said, were prepared to meet the attack throughout the province northeast of Madrid.

An insurgent attack in force to batter down the city's five-month stand against the siege had been predicted in the last couple of days by defence officers as an imminent probability.

MORE ITALIANS LAND

Canadian Press from Havas

London, March 8.—Ten thousand Italian troops landed in Spain to join the insurgents on February 28, in "clear violation" of the international agreement put into effect February 20, banning dispatch of "volunteers" to either belligerent. The Manchester Guardian said today.

The newspaper claimed the insurgent military leaders are men of "monumental incompetence" who have "greatly exaggerated" Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini.

It said the number of Italians and Germans fighting for the insurgents "cannot be far short of 100,000."

WAR MATERIALS

"As far as is known," The Guardian said, "no volunteers have arrived from the Reich or the Soviet Union since the agreement (banning volunteers) came into force, but war material has arrived from both countries since the agreement for stopping such supplies came into force."

Paris newspapers said imposing contingents of Italian volunteers—ranging between 10,000 and 25,000 men—had departed or were about to land in Spain.

Emergency Plant Used in Interior

Canadian Press

Kamloops, B.C., March 8.—A steam-operated auxiliary plant was supplying electric light and power to this interior town today as British Columbia Electric Railway Company workmen tried to replace 100 feet of the Barrere power plant flume, swept away by a snowslide last Thursday.

Power company officials said foundations of the flume had been washed out to a depth of fifty feet. Inaccessibility of the location of the slide was expected to delay repairs to the flume for several days.

NEW SETTLEMENT PLANS STUDIED

Canadian Press

Ottawa, March 8.—Resumption of British family settlement in Saskatchewan will be considered by the federal government at an early date, it was learned today.

Following the visit to Ottawa by Garnet C. Neff and John R. Garden of the Saskatchewan Immigration and Settlement Convention, Hon. T. A. C. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources, gave assurance the resolutions and the immigration convention favoring resumption of British immigration on a considerable scale, would be placed before the government.

POLICE PLACED AT BRIDGES

Canadian Press

Vancouver, March 8.—White farmers picketing bridges leading from lower mainland farming communities to Vancouver have withdrawn after six days' effort to stop alleged Chinese "bootlegging" or potatoes in contravention of British Columbia Coast Vegetable Marketing Board orders. Richmond municipal police reported today.

Inspector Forbes Cruickshanks, head of the lower mainland division of the Provincial Police, said here "some" of his officers had been stationed at bridgeheads formerly picketed by the farmers. The officers, he said, were serving as marketing board inspectors.

District Attorney Fitts Wounded in Arm By Would-be Assassin

Associated Press

Los Angeles, March 8.—District Attorney Buron Fitts, forty-two, wounded in the arm by a "novice gunman" last night, lay behind guarded hospital doors today while a huge manhunt was in full cry for the would-be assassin.

The prosecutor was ambushed by men in a black sedan, he said, as he drove the 200 yards from his ranch to his father's home along a country road in suburban Monrovia.

Fitts said he was turning out of his driveway into a public avenue when he suddenly saw the sedan parked back of a clump of bushes.

The car was dark, but inside he could see the shadowy forms of "three or four men."

"I knew I was in trouble," he continued. "The ambush car moved alongside mine—the running boards almost touching. A man leaned out of the sedan. There was a spurt of fire and a shot. My windshield was shattered and my left arm, which had been resting on the sill of the left front door, dropped helpless at my side."

Marshalling his ace investigators on the case, Sheriff Eugene Biscailous declared the shooting "unquestionably was the work of amateurs. No expert machine gunner or hardened gangster would have bungled the job. The only reason Fitts wasn't killed was because a novice gunman was appointed to 'get' him."

Relatives said Fitts' first concern was for Mary Lou, his adopted ten-year-old daughter, who has been guarded for several months since threats were made against the district attorney.

Speedier Divorces Planned in Idaho

Associated Press
Boise, Idaho, March 8.—Idaho has lined up for some of Reno's divorce business.
Governor Barzilla W. Clark on Saturday signed a measure passed by the Legislature reducing from three months to six weeks the time divorce-seekers must reside in Idaho before starting legal proceedings. The measure will become effective sixty days after adjournment of the Legislature, still in session.
Prior to 1931 a year's residence in Idaho was required before divorce proceedings could be instituted.

Skin Game Wins Drama Festival

Miss Margery Benson and Fred Spender Receive
Awards For Acting; Three Plays Selected For Van-

For the second time in the last three years, Miss Margery Benson won the award for the best actress in the Vancouver Island elimination contest of the Dominion Drama Festival which ended at the Empire Theatre on Saturday.

Best Actress in Festival

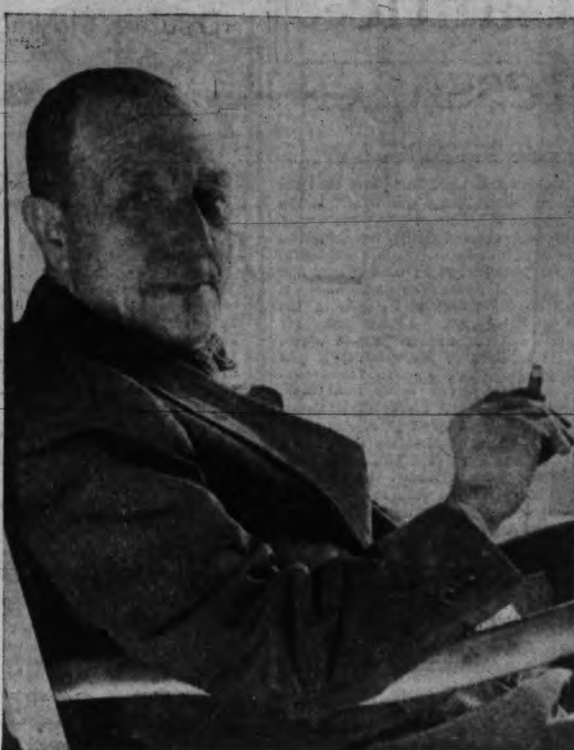

MISS MARGERY BENSON
who won the David Spencer Cup for her performance of Amanda Frynne in the Beaux Art's presentation of an act from "Private Lives."

Fred Spencer was adjudged the best individual male actor.

The three plays which will go to the regional contest in Vancouver and the playing accorded them by Frank Johnstone, the adjudicator, was as follows:

1. The first act of the "Skin Game" by John Galsworthy and produced by H. J. Davis with a cast from the Victoria Little Theatre Association was as follows: Hillcrest, Basil Breton; Jill (his daughter), Anne Breton; Fel-lows (his butler), Alec McGowan; Mrs. Jackman, Vera Trueman; Jackman, Arthur Long; Amy, Pat Fair-

PRESENTATION OF TROPHIES

Miss Benson was presented with the David Spencer Trophy by Mrs. W. C. Nichol. Mr. Spencer received the Hudson's Bay Cup.

Her acting in the Beaux-Art's presentation of an act from "Private Lives" won Miss Benson the premier award. She took the part of Amanda Frynne in what the adjudicator described as an almost professional style.

Mr. Spencer played the role of Hornblower, the up-and-coming Yorkshire man who was going to push the Hillcrest and their ilk of aristocrats off the face of the earth in the "Skin Game." Of him Mr. Johnstone said: "All you can say is that he was Hornblower."

"I feel very strongly that Victoria is to be congratulated on the successful productions which I witnessed both nights," Mr. Johnstone said in opening his criticisms of the four plays presented Saturday.

He felt that the "Theatre of the Soul," the first presentation, did not have a general appeal. The whole play, he thought, was too careful and studied. It did not quite get across. With the talent available he doubted if the producer could have done better.

The "Theatre of the Soul" by Nicolas Evreinoff was directed by J. Barracough with a cast from the Beaux-Arts as follows:

The Professor, Harry S. Hay; M. 1, the National Entity of the Soul, Gordon Fraser; M. 2, the Emotional Entity of the Soul, Don Harvey; M. 3, the Subliminal Entity of the Soul, Gregory Crawley; The Concept of the Wife, Margery Benson; The Concept of the Dancer, Loleta Reyes.

THE WEST BEGINS

"I enjoyed 'The West Begins' very much," Mr. Johnstone said, "the general level of performance was excellent. The only thing I have against it is that the plot was so thin."

"The West Begins," by Audrey St. Denis Wood, was directed by W. B. Crawley with a cast from the Victoria Little Theatre Association as follows: Ian McLeod, Dan MacDonald; Elspeth, his wife, Ann Piers; Alisa, their daughter, Betty Hetherington; Jamie Scott, a young doctor, Harry S. Hay; Geoffrey Robson, H. J. S. Reynolds; Bruce, a child.

A delightful atmosphere was created in the "Careless Warrior," Mr. Johnstone said. The play was difficult and it had a touch of being amateurish. The performance of Bert Bailey as Zoomits was outstanding, but he was not quite an Indian. This criticism the adjudicator also applied to the three maidens whose "voices blended so well together."

"The Skin Game" was the most level production, Mr. Johnstone said. The players were at home and at ease on the stage. The lighting and staging he described as good.

Capt. T. L. Thorpe Double, chairman of the committee in charge of the elimination contest, thanked all those who had aided in the arranging and producing of the plays. During an intermission he answered the question of why Victoria did not put on all-star plays in the Drama Festival.

tival. If a super-play was put on, Capt. Thorpe Double said that no one else would enter the elimination contest because they would feel that they would not have a chance.

The thing that decided the committee against the all-star play was the belief that those who considered themselves stars would hold back from production of their own organizations in order to be in the all-star play. The theatre groups would thus be split up.

Disappearance Still Mystery

Conflicting Testimony As Scotland Yard Investigates
F. Vosper's Loss From Ship

Associated Press

London, March 8.—Scotland Yard officials today were confronted by a mass of conflicting testimony in their efforts to solve the disappearance at sea of Frank Vosper, British stage star and dramatist.

Whether the actor, torn by love, threw himself into the Atlantic from the liner Paris, or stepped by accident through a window opening on the sea instead of the deck appeared a mystery that may never be cleared up.

He disappeared early Saturday as the liner was approaching Plymouth. Muriel Oxford, British beauty queen from whose cabin the actor made his last exit, and Peter Willes, his close friend, appeared at their solicitors' offices and gave their versions of the tragedy.

Both were of the opinion Vosper, who was short-sighted, tried to escape undetected from a gay champagne party, and squeezed through a window he believed opened on the deck.

DENIES THREAT MADE

Miss Oxford, "Miss Great Britain" last year, angrily denied a statement of another passenger he had heard Vosper threaten to throw himself into the ocean unless she would marry him.

"We were talking a lot of nonsense," she said. "Mr. Willes may have said it, but I'm certain Mr. Vosper didn't."

She declared she had never met either Willes or Vosper before the party, which ended in her stateroom.

Ernest Hemingway, the novelist, asserted on the liner's arrival at Le Havre that jealousy seemed to be the motive for Vosper's action. The novelist occupied a cabin across from that of Miss Oxford, and was understood not to have attended the party. Willes, who said he got Vosper out of bed to attend the party, said he was certain the actor was only bored and tried to sneak away.

Muriel Oxford was recently in a New York night club cast.

Vosper was returning from Hollywood.

What Does It Want?

ONE OF THESE DAYS, AL though we despair of it, The Vancouver Daily Province will make a brave attempt to know what it really wants in the political sense—or, perhaps, we ought to say in the governmental sense. In this column on Saturday we said that British Columbia had negotiated a good deal in eastern Canada when it borrowed $3,000,000 at the record low interest of a little more than 3 per cent. The Times stands by that statement.

The Vancouver Daily Province, however, sees in the deal nothing much more than the home-coming of Premier Pattullo "flushed with triumph, bringing Hon. Finance Minister Hart and a new debt of $3,000,000 with him. It is a sort of 60 per cent triumph, because they went after $5,000,000 in the first place. Still, Premier Pattullo will be apt to think that 60 per cent of anything in the way of political performance is pretty good, and so undoubtedly—not to be too cynical—it is."

We quote again from The Daily Province: "Mr. Pattullo is cheerful because now, having got his $3,000,000, he can have a road programme, and having a road programme with Mr. Pattullo means having the means to win an election and a further lease of office. We shall get some road improvements out of this loan, and we very badly need some road improvements."

"Perhaps this circumstance should really be set down on the cheerful side of this new debt. We shall get at least something for our new debt besides an election and the probability of more government according to the Pattullo formula. If you are a very cheerful person indeed, and if it is almost impossible to cast you down about anything, you will see that this debt could have been worse."

"But really the smile with which we meet Mr. Pattullo, when he comes home in a day or two, ought at least to have a touch of the sardonic in it. It is not, on general principles, good business, this business of putting B.C. further into debt. If the times are better everywhere, it is not the honest promise of here here that we should still more involve our already heavily-mortgaged future."

"The reality of good times for us should properly consist in a manifold effort to decrease the burden of debt. It is never really going to be good times for us if we keep on piling up the debt."

It might be interesting, incidentally, to ask how The Province got the idea that Premier Pattullo and Hon. John Hart went east asking for $5,000,000. But there are more important points involved in this matter of a loan to British Columbia of $3,000,000 than that contained in the wordy editorial of our mainland contemporary to which we have referred.

True, Premier Pattullo has got the money he wanted for a road programme, and if there was one thing British Columbia required for the improvement of its highway system it was money with which to induce visiting motorists—particularly from the United States, where, after all, they demand and get high-class roads.

It is a matter of record, but perhaps The Vancouver Daily Province did not think it worth while to make an inquiry that would spoil its verbiage about the return of the Premier and the Minister of Finance, that about 20 per cent of the motoring public on the south of us have told Vancouver and Victoria that if our highways could be improved even to a moderate extent, automobile travel to British Columbia soon would be doubled. The value of that increase would be many millions of dollars.

The Daily Province, of course, did not like the King government which met defeat in the general election of 1930. It did not like either the Oliver or the MacLean governments of this province. It got utterly fed up with the Dominion Bennett government and the provincial Tolmie government. Why does it not say just what it wants?

What Is C.N.R. Deficit?

THE STATEMENT BY PRESIDENT C. H. Carlisle at the annual meeting of the Dominion Bank that "our Canadian National Railways is still causing us a loss of over $110,000,000 a year," is challenged as "absolutely incorrect" by Mr. D. M. LeBourdais, executive secretary of the National Railway League, Toronto.

There are two conflicting points of view concerning the finances of the Canadian National Railways, and Mr. Carlisle is wrong to both, says Mr. LeBourdais.

The obligations of the Canadian National Railways, according to Mr. LeBourdais's analysis, consist of (1) bonds in the hands of the public; and (2) loans made by the government to the railways while they were still in private hands and other loans since made to meet deficits on fixed charges other than government loans, with accrued interest compounded.

Interest on (1) for 1936 is estimated at $49,715,000, which, when the operating profit for 1936 is ascertained, should not leave, at the outside, a deficit of more than $42,000,000.

Interest on (2) was $35,949,676 in 1935 and will be somewhat higher in 1936. These items—bond interest at $24,000,000, and loan interest at, say, $37,000,000—total $79,000,000 and constitute the outside figure that can be charged as a loss against the system for 1936.

Even this total, he argues, cannot, by any method of accounting, all be considered as loss, because a large portion of the amount consists of interest compounded year by year since 1915 at 6 per cent—which obviously does not constitute a loss to the government.

But a large section of Canadian opinion holds that the Canadian National Railways have been grossly over-capitalized from the start. In 1934, Geo. A. Touche and Company, auditors appointed by Parliament, recommended a large part be written off the capital structure of the system on the ground that charges aggregating that amount had already been absorbed into the national debt and were no longer shown in the public accounts as assets, yet the C.N.R. was compelled to show them as liabilities. The present minister of railways evidently agrees with this view since he has recently introduced legislation to remedy the situation along the lines suggested in the Touche report.

So, if we take the view which the auditors and the minister hold, the deficit on the Canadian National Railways for 1936 cannot be more than $42,000,000.

If, on the other hand, we accept the opinion of those who oppose this view, the loss could not be more than $80,000,000—which, even then, is more than $30,000,000 less than the figure stated by Mr. Carlisle.

Before Our Time

VICTORIA FISHERMEN HAVE been known to tell stories about the "large" ones that got away from them. No doubt some of the yarns were true. But the following ought to be entitled to the designation of the oldest fish story. It comes from Somerset, England, and reads:

"About 145,000,000 years ago a fish was imprisoned in Jurassic strata in the area which became Somerset. Yesterday a piece of walling stone from Charlton Mackrell, Somerset, was split by a workman constructing a fish pond in an Exeter fishmonger's garden. Inside it was that prehistoric fish. The fossil was handed to the curator of Exeter Museum."

The Times, jealous of its accuracy in its references to the piscatorial arts, absolves itself from all responsibility for the reproduction of the foregoing. It is intrigued, however, by the surname, Mackrell, and the building of a fish-pond in a fishmonger's garden.

"Whirligig"

THAT POPULAR ILLUSTRATED London daily, The Mirror, with a circulation of more than 2,000,000, continues to wonder once or twice a week what is going to be the end of the rearmament race. In a recent issue its leading editorial, headed "Whirligig," read as follows:

Now that the old, old armaments race is again running at top speed, you may note that most of the feverish competitors are politely telling one another that it's each runner's private business. Nothing to do with the others!

All are preparing to destroy civilization. But that's each nation's own affair. Thus, if you see a gangster coming towards you with knife and revolver, you don't ask him why he's carrying those weapons. You just bow and say, "Your affair, my good man, your affair."

Or, again, the race isn't really a race. It's a lot of teetotums revolving in solitude. Just a whirligig. No harm meant.

For our part in the roundabout, $400,000,000 is the prospective bill. An expensive merry-go-round!

A Rarity In Europe

A FREE PARLIAMENT IN FIERY debate is rare enough nowadays on the European continent to be interesting as a spectacle. Anne O'Hare McCormick of The New York Times writes from Paris of seeing in the visitors' gallery of the French Chamber of Deputies, recently a young Italian, to whom the experience apparently was new. He and a young Frenchman argued as hard as the speakers on the floor. The Italian, informed the debate would not affect the vote, agreed on beforehand, kept asking what purpose was served by twelve hours' talk.

This point of view of millions of young persons educated under dictatorships is one of the new realities the world has to face. It dims the hopes for an early return to democratic institutions.

Notes

For questioning in the Mattson kidnapping case in Tacoma, police are seeking a woman who had red hair when last seen.

Floods are like war. They could be prevented, but the people who could prevent them are not the ones who must suffer.

Strange, but none of the manufacturers have thought of attacking the sit-down strike menace through the medium of "Fresh Paint" signs.

A novel experiment of having college students pursue a study as a hobby and not for credit will shortly be inaugurated at Harvard. President James B. Conant announces. A vast majority of college alumni fail to continue their "intellectual and spiritual growth" after graduation, he said. The hobby study is expected to inculcate the students with the habit of independent reading and extra-curricular study which they will continue out of college.

Column Three

SPRING!

Although we sing with English vim
"That summer is I-cummin' in,"
We give a yet more joyous shout
For winter is "I-goin' out."

A LOT of well-informed people believe that the book called "Gone With the Wind" is the most widely read at this season. They are wrong. The best read and most violently controversial volume is the Seed Catalogue. It is a wonderful work, this Seed Catalogue, filled with beauty and weighty with promise. The fellow who wrote it gets no credit on the title-page in spite of the fact that he beats any other author going for wild imagination and big, unpronounceable words.

You can get an idea of his wizardry if you read the first paragraph in his book: "Hardy annual, two feet high. Grows easily from seed. Gives a profusion of flowers, six to eight inches across." Now look at the front yard, and "that is really there? A bit of moth-eaten lawn, some soggy earth and quite a lot of dead leaves. But, as a result of this winter's magic, you visualize acres of multi-colored plants with flowers six to eight inches across. So you make a mark by this thrifty variety and determine to order a couple of packets. You read on and on to find when the last page is turned, that you have marked every item except Morning Glories and one kind of squash which looked coarse and bloated in the accompanying cut. This won't do because one city lot cannot be expected to support so many mammoth vegetables and blooms. After hours of vacillation and torturing doubt, your list is reduced slightly.

WHEN THE seeds arrive you recapture the thrill Christmas morning used to hold before Santa Claus came just any man in a red suit with false stomach and whiskers. You can't get the seeds in the ground quickly enough, and the agony of suspense until they sprout is dreadful. To describe the humiliation and fury which follow when you compare the grown finished article with the verbal picture in the "Catalogue" would require the pen and vocabulary of Thomas Carlyle. There are men and women walking the streets of this city today who, through the heartless exaggeration and crafty lies of this Seed Catalogue Man are bruised in spirit and dead to hope.

Something must be done. Here is one suggestion. Send the catalogue man to Hollywood to write for the movies and insist that H. L. Mencken be appointed to edit all seed catalogues in future. Only then shall we be immune to that stastistic urge which attacks even the most rational at this season. The urge to dig little holes and plant little seeds, in the expectation that something will come up.

ODE TO SPRING

All cry with joy that spring has come,
No more the frost will paint the pane.
All gone the cold, away the rain.
The sun has come to stay again.

But I reply with sigh and sneeze,
I've rheumatism in my knees
And woeless on or else I freeze:
This "spring" is just a myth to tease.

The birds may chirp on every bough
And we white lambskins gambol nough,
The farmer trudges behind the plough,
Young piglets follow mother sough.

Still to the fireside I shall cling,
Yet others take their vernal fling
With yelp and whoop and yodeling—
Avant, yep, yay, yay, yay, yay!

MORE FEES FOR CITY TO PAY

To the Editor:—Following our numerous experiments (so costly that our children and their children will wonder what calibre their parents were) the city is bankrupt, and we are informed that if we do not consent to the "Fortin scheme" at least twenty mills must be added to our present tax bill.

Some of the aldermen feel that Mr. Henley should have a fee and it now appears that Mr. Fortin seeks a fee of some $1,000 to $1,500.

BOTTLES AND ROOMS WORRY MOTHER

To the Editor:—I think every mother should support Mr. Stinson and Mr. Thorsen in doing away with the practice of young couples going to dances and renting a hotel room and having a bottle of strong drink.

When I was young no girl would think of going to a bedroom with a man during a dance. I have spoken of this to my two daughters who have started going to dances. They tell me that I am old fashioned and that everybody does it. Perhaps I am old fashioned, and we hear that morality changes with each generation, but I can't make myself believe that what goes on now at these dances can be right. The young people come home at all hours in the morning and refuse to tell their parents where they have been. All they will say is "Don't worry, mother, we're young only once." But I do worry.

All power to Mr. Stinson and Mr. Thorsen in their efforts to improve moral conditions for our boys and girls and put an end to this shocking bottle of liquor and bedroom business.

WORRIED MOTHER.

THIS RESTLESS WORLD

To the Times on various subjects, one cannot help but notice the general unrest and dissatisfaction in the province and in the world, and it would seem in many cases for good and just reasons.

Referring to the abdication of the late King Edward, which undoubtedly all British subjects keenly felt, we can at least give him credit for abdicating gracefully. In reference to an article which refers to the lesson for Canadians, I felt sure that as much as we Canadians regret the abdication, we could not have accepted a lady as our Queen whose affections were so whimsical and inconstant that they would not command our honor, respect or confidence.

It would seem as if there is a sore need in the world today of a truer concept of the meaning of the word love. Ideal love does not change with each new face it meets. The determination to gratify selfish desires seems to overwhelm many a person's obligations to society.

The practice of the golden rule—"Do unto others as you would they should do unto you," would prevent many a tragic occurrence in life. We do thank God for the British Constitution.

HERO FOR HUMANITY

From The New York Post

The greatest battle of the Spanish-American War was fought two years after the treaty of peace was signed. Charles S. Sonntag, buried at Arlington Wednesday with military honors, was one of its heroes. He helped to free Cuba, and ultimately the Western Hemisphere, from an invader worse than the Spaniard, yellow fever.

The story of the great experiment in 1900 at a United States Army camp outside Havana is a schoolboy epic. Sonntag was one of the soldiers who volunteered to put their arms into wire cages filled with a certain breed of mosquitoes—Stegomyia fasciata—on the blood of yellow fever victims. Sonntag and his comrades fell ill, and their illness proved these mosquitoes transmitters of the plague. Yellow fever, which took 10,000 lives a year in the Americas before its carrier had been discovered, has become a rarity since.

The men who charged up San Juan Hill or served guns in Manila Bay drew a heavy courage from the wine of glory. Sonntag and his fellows, rolling up their sleeves before the mosquito cages at Camp Lazear, ventured the unknown in sober daylight. They marched into the jaws of a fate that turns the tongue scarlet, the skin yellow, the vomit black. One does not choose to die of yellow fever.

They came back heroes, but the life of a hero is not a parade. They discovered well, but faded badly. Search of the files shows them appearing from time to time in the news: One penniless and an invalid in Ohio; another admitted as a paralytic to an army hospital; a third, asking help, with tuberculosis. In 1931, when Congress voted them medals and pensions, the whereabouts of two were marked "unknown."

The war they fought transcended pigmy divisions of nation, color, language or creed. In honoring them by honoring Sonntag, the United States Army honored itself, paid tribute to a first faint foretaste of the days when we shall all turn swords into ploughshares.

DIVORCE SIXTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO

From The Hanover Post

A copy of an old Grey County paper of 1870, which we recently had the pleasure of perusing, had an article from The Toronto Leader to the effect that "Chicago is maintaining its reputation as a place where marital obligations sit lightly upon the people" because "divorce is as easy as wedlock and separations are almost as numerous as marriages." During one year, it was reported, 569 dissolutions of marriage were decreed by the courts of that city, and the Toronto paper said: "This is a lively business and gives an air of probability to the fact that railway conductors, when they reach that city, cry out to passengers, 'Chicago—the train stops twenty minutes for divorces.'" Apparently there were people sixty-seven years ago, as now, who worried over the increasing divorce rate.

A NORWEGIAN'S FATAL BOAST

From The London Times

A young man who lived at Grask, near Frederikstad, in Norway, boasted to friends that he could climb the mast of a 20,000-volt high tension cable and stand on his head at the top. When he reached the top there was a short circuit, all lights in the district went out, and the youth was seen standing on his head on the top of the mast burning like a torch. When his body was brought down it was nothing but a charred mass.

Better English

By D. C. WILLIAMS

1. What is wrong with this sentence? "She sat her guests at the table."
2. What is the correct pronunciation of "elite"?
3. Which one of these words is misspelled? Hemisphere, hemorrhage, heliotrope, hieroglyphic.
4. What does the word "resplendent" mean?
5. What is a word beginning with fee that means "fertility"?

Answers
1. Say, "She seated her guests at the table." 2. Pronounce a-leet, as in "day," as in feet, accent last syllable. 3. Hemorrhage. 4. Shining with brilliant luster, very bright. "With royal tapestry and resplendent gold." 5. Fecundity.

BENEATH THE SNOW

Beneath the snow my garden lies
All white and drear;
The flowers of spring and summer all
Lie covered here.

While winter winds and snow and sleet
Are all around,
The spring and summer flowers lie
Warm
Beneath the ground.

Today the snow has almost gone,
A bird did sing,
And all the snowdrops shook their heads
To welcome spring.

CRITIQUE IN VERSE

To the Editor:
There is a gent in Carol Street,
Who seeks to give us all a treat.
He seems to think that I am blind
And am a little weak in mind
If I do not with him agree
And Social Credit cannot see.
Bill Shakespeare would not feel flattered
To see his reputation shattered.
He was a very careful man.
His poetry was made to scan.
It really is an awful crime
To make the "hurry"-study rhyme.
And "credit"-merit are not fit

NO VOTE AND NEVER COMPLAINS

To the Editor:—Not so very long ago I saw mentioned in papers votes for Orientals. I don't know what to think of that matter.

Principles in Canada are different to the principles in Orient. Besides that let us consider the critical situation in the Orient at the present time. It may turn to war or civil war. Who can tell what may happen there at any moment?

Japan may turn fascist and China may turn red. I don't mean the whole of China, but some parts of it. I don't think this is the right time for bothering about the question of votes for Orientals. I rather think that they can let them get along without the votes for a while yet. I have got no vote and have never asked for it, and I do not complain. Let me make it clear to readers I do not wish to criticize any person because of difference in complexion or language.

"WHOLLY CANADIAN" A DUNCANITE ASKS

To the Editor:—In your editorial, "It Is Canadian?" you end by saying "that if and when the Dominion does anything to be proud of, it should tell the world it is wholly Canadian."

Is it possible for anything to be wholly Canadian? I know of one thing only that was wholly Canadian and of which we are proud. I speak of the C.E.F., 1914-18—100 per cent native sons, in spite of Paddy Fear's and Thomas Manning's statements to the contrary.

Yes, let us tell the world "if and when we do something." To "open up" the "cut-out" and make a big racket even if it is with American-made equipment.

If they are not aware of the fact that we are a nation of superiorly-constructed beings, well, you show 'em with a few more editorials and letters to the Editor.

FIRST-HAND INFORMATION FROM SPAIN

To the Editor:—A letter in your columns from a pro-Fascist correspondent alluded to the desirability of giving consideration to the views of those who have first-hand knowledge of recent events in Spain.

This being so, Dr. Norman Bethune's account of the recent civilian evacuation of Malaga, published by you on February 18, and an address given by Professor J. B. S. Haldane in Great Britain should carry considerable weight.

And though not writing as an eyewitness of the Spanish conflict, the views expressed by Professor Gilbert Murray (subscribed to by a group of British Liberals with whom he is associated) regarding the intervention by Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany in the Spanish rebellion, are worthy of note.

The reputations of these men stand considerably higher than those of any of the pro-Fascist propagandists I can think of.

As your editorial, "Defender of the Faith," February 22, suggests, semi-Fagan Nazis are curious allies for those supposed to be fighting to preserve Christianity. So are Mohammedan Moslems for that matter.

Those who profess to see no difference between a constitutionally-elected government—elected, be it remembered, while reaction was in power—and rebels who have the active help of Hitler and Mussolini and the open sympathy of reactionaries throughout the world, have no reason for surprise if they are put down as Fascists.

HEALTH INSURANCE QUESTIONS

To the Editor:—I would like to ask Mr. Hugh Smith, he now being familiar with conditions in this country, if he truly thinks the British scheme would be successful if run by B.C. politics? If he can in any way compare the living conditions of the low wage earners of England's industrial towns of twenty years ago, when health insurance was introduced, with the living conditions of the working people of B.C.? Can he compare the services of the medical men of those areas with the doctors of this province? Was it not an absolute necessity that the British government take action, and is such the case in B.C.?

DENIES "UNDER-COVER" CHARGE

To the Editor:—My attention has been drawn to a report in your columns of a public address by Col. Edgett in which the speaker attacked the Fellowship for a Christian Social Order as an under-cover Communist organization. The colored is as much entitled to propound Fascist views as others are entitled to propound Socialism or Communism, but he is not entitled to misrepresent views he does not like. The assumption that any criticism of religious or political form of economy on religious or other grounds is the same thing as Communism, betrays a naïveté surprising in an officer of field rank.

The Fellowship for a Christian Social Order is an association of over 300 ministers of religion, together with a number of sympathetic laymen, who believe that Christianity demands realization in social life and institutions, and that this will involve the replacement of capitalism by an economic structure suited to the Christian ideal of community. The Fellowship has nothing to hide. The fullest information as to its organization and activities is open to anyone interested enough to inquire. Its views may be found in four documents, "The Manifesto," two pamphlets, "The Gospel of the Kingdom" and "The Conscience of the Rich," and in the recent volume "Towards the Christian Revolution." Back of all of these is the Bible, a book of which the Colonel has doubtless heard, but of whose revolutionary teachings he is apparently unaware.

A VICTORIA WESTER PROTESTS

To the Editor:—Regarding the closing of the Victoria West fire hall, Alderman Morgan stated in answer to question that the closing of Duchess Street and Victoria West halls would not result in the equipment of protection and that the equipment of the halls would be manned. But now the fire chief has stated that he can only send two engines to residential fires instead of three.

If this is not cutting down protection, what is it? Alderman Morgan may have been right when he said these engines would still be manned, but he should have admitted they would be in reserve and not used as before.

We have enjoyed a reduction in fire insurance rates lately and we do not want the rates to go up again as they most certainly will, especially in Victoria West. It seems to me that to cut down in the fire department, which is the city's most important service, is not sound business.

Alderman Will's suggestion for a report on the cost of reopening Victoria West hall under the new hours of work is a splendid idea and should be studied by the council before the estimates come down for their attention. Surely, with Duchess Street closed and the fire department estimates already under last year (as reported in The Times recently), the cost of taking on a few more men will not make any noticeable difference to the mill rate. There are plenty of other ways the council can save money if they have a mind to.

Victoria West is a large district and is isolated from the city and should have adequate fire protection, which it certainly is not getting under the new regulations.

TAXPAYER

BATTLING FOR MR. SAUNDERS

To the Editor:—In his two recent letters in reply to Mr. Saunders (and which, owing to his absence in England, Mr. Saunders will probably not see), Mr. A. S. Averill attempts to set out the case for Social Credit. It is necessary to supplement his statement by saying that the national discount is to be reimbursed to the retailer by a subsidy to make up to him the difference between the selling price and the cost of the goods. At the same time, the purchaser is to be subsidized by a dividend. This ignores the quantity theory and would inevitably create a tendency to inflation. The vendor of goods buys money with goods, just as the consumer buys goods with money. Increase in the quantity of any kind of goods lowers its value in terms of money, and similarly the increase in the quantity of money depreciates its value in terms of goods. Accordingly the issue of debt-free money, gratis, to consumer and vendor in any appreciable quantity will depreciate the value of the money; and the fixing of the price of goods, from time to time, as planned, would not prevent that occurrence. Also, as the currency continued to depreciate, the cost of production paid for in depreciated currency would continue to rise and the price of goods, or the subsidies, or both, would have to be adjusted upwards accordingly, and we would be on the high road to destructive inflation.

The erroneous conclusions of Social Credit all spring from the fundamental error on which Douglas's philosophy was originally founded, viz., that in the production of wealth products are not equal to the prices of the wealth products—what is known as the A plus B theory. The fact is, however, that the price of anything consists of payments in wages, salaries, dividends and profits, and nothing else. How simple this fact is becomes clear if only one tries to discover any factor that enters into the cost of any article that is not a payment to some person who is a consumer of goods.

Social Credit has since found it necessary to abandon the A plus B theory in its plain meaning and application. They admit that payments equals costs in a static economy, but enter into a confused argument that the payments are short in an expanding economy.

This leads to the absurd conclusion that the time for the government to make gifts of money to consumers and to subsidize producers is when everything is on this upgrade, when money is flowing freely, and when, in consequence, everyone is finding employment.

No, Social Credit is not the solution. Social Creditors are, however, entitled to some appreciation for having persistently directed public attention to some advantages of a judiciously managed currency, to the excessive profits that are made by many financial and commercial institutions, monopolies, and combines, and to the failure of productive industry to pass on to the consumers the reduction in costs and excessive profits arising from mechanization.

These improvements, if they can be brought about, can better be accomplished otherwise than by attempting to apply fundamentally unsound theory, and the ingenuity of Social Creditors might conceivably contribute to that desirable end rather than be wasted in efforts to get something out of nothing, or, in other words—so to speak—to lift ourselves up by our boot-straps or to discover perpetual motion.

HOW TO WORK CHEAP FINANCE

To the Editor:—I suggest a plan something after the following Help Yourself Bonds. These bonds to be made available to an extent of not more than $5,000,000 per series. Each bond would cost $2.50 so that the small investor as well as the richer man would be able to purchase. Five years from the date of issue they would be repayable at par and would carry no interest. But every six months there would be a drawing for prizes.

How would the prize money become available? The bonds carry no interest. Instead 2 1/2 per cent would be appropriated for prizes yielding a yearly sum of $125,000.

This list of prizes would be drawn for every six months: First prize, $25,000; second prize, $15,000; third prize, $5,000; fourth prize, $2,500; fifth prize, $500; sixth prize, $500; twenty prizes of $100, $2,500; two hundred prizes of $50, $10,000.

The plan would give a substantial sum of a low rate of interest and would be the means of harnessing the speculative habit of the public and would keep a large amount of money at home, which at present is going outside in sweepstakes. This plan could not be classed as a lottery for the purchaser has the certainty of getting his money back.

The chances of a prize in this plan is considerably greater than in the Irish sweepstake and, any way, nobody worries about the interest on $2.50.

If anybody has any doubts as to being able to sell the bonds, just ask the first ten people they meet how many sweepstake tickets, etc., they have in their pockets, and I believe you will find that at least seven would have one or more.

The possessor of a bond would be considered the rightful owner of same. This would save a lot of overhead expenses as no detailed register need be kept and the original bondholder would be able to dispose of same without trouble.

When a bond is drawn for a prize that bond would be cancelled.

AN OLD PRAIRIE. C.P.R. MAN ENTERS PRESIDENT BEATTY-BISHOP LLOYD ARGUMENT

To the Editor:—I did not see Bishop Lloyd's letter to which President Beatty of the C.P.R. replied.

I was employed in the C.P.R. audit department in Winnipeg before it was completed to the coast. In fact, I checked up the first month's commercial telegraph work they did in the west, then took charge of freight statistical work. In the first place, the C.P.R. received from the Dominion every other section of land from the boundary at the south up to the frozen north and from the Red River to the Rocky Mountains and none of their lands at that time were open to settlement except at prohibitive prices. Two branch lines were built in southern Manitoba. But with less than half of the land open for settlement, conditions were not conducive to produce freight. Petition after petition from the settlers went to the directors in Montreal begging for more branch lines and extension of those already built, as many settlers were all the way from thirty to fifty miles from the nearest point of the track.

The directors would wire to Winnipeg for a statement of a certain branch line's portion of the earnings, for, say, two months. I would get out the figures for them in the course of an hour or so, and that would be the last of it. The branch line's portion of the earnings were so small that the directors simply said, "Nothing doing." No wonder they were small under the conditions.

In course of time a private company built a line from Portage La Prairie north-west through a fertile wheat belt, but when they saw that it was only a feeder to the C.P.R., and what their proportion of the earnings were they dropped the road and the C.P.R. got it and used it, and not until there was opposition did they begin to properly accommodate the people with more branch lines.

If the C.P.R. lands, the Hudson's Bay lands and the school lands had all been open for settlement, there should have been ample freight for two roads, if not for three. Mr. Beatty says, "largely as the result of carefully cultivated prejudices against this company, two other transcontinental lines were built." The C.P.R. practically had twenty years of monopoly and ample opportunity to build up an immense railroad system that no other road would have ventured to oppose them; however, they failed to build. Having failed on account of their policy, the federal government built a road through the north, not on account of cultivated prejudice, but they considered there was ample room for two roads, especially as the C.P.R. was not opening the north as they should have done.

As to the third road, MacKenzie and Mann had no idea of building a transcontinental. It was only intended to be a line from say central Alberta to Winnipeg to accommodate settlers rather far from the other two roads. But they soon realized that after all such a road was only a feeder to the other lines and to make it they would have to make it transcontinental. However, financially they were not strong enough to operate it and the government at Ottawa by its machinations got the two roads on its hands. Personally I always considered it was one too many. It saddled Canada with too great a debt and with so many years of crop failures and depressions since the roads were built—which nobody anticipated—it is no wonder that some men find reason to blame the C.P.R. officials.

About the Onderdonk contract, if my memory serves me right, it was begun with white labor, but no sooner were working camps established along the route than in came the liquor

Free State Envoy Weds U.S. Widow

Associated Press
New York, March 8.—Mrs. Nicholas P. Brady, widow of the late U.S. minister to the Vatican, was married Saturday to William J. Babington Macaulay, Irish Free State minister to the Vatican.

The ceremony was performed at the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola, at 7 a.m., by the Most Rev. John Gregory Murray, Archbishop of St. Paul, Minn., who is an old friend of the Brady family. They sailed for Rome later.

Macaulay entered the Irish diplomatic service in 1924, and served as minister to the United States from 1932 to 1934.

Poetry Theme Of Beauty Talk

"The Wings of Poetry," the second talk of the "Adventuring in Beauty" series, was cleverly given by Miss Rena Grant in the Y.W.C.A. clubrooms.

Miss Grant divided people into three groups—those who really know poetry, those who seek the way of intelligent appreciation and those who definitely dislike it.

The subject was approached with an interrogation, "What supplies the wings?" Miss Grant maintained that one's reason and emotions were chiefly instrumental in obtaining a real appreciation. Poetry may be placed half way between prose which essentially appeals to the intellect, and music which is an emotional experience. Poetry may be detected by the rhythm which may in itself communicate the meaning. The sound effect is often predominant. De La Mare was cited as having a great mastery over sound, combining the charm of fairland with reality, she said.

A figure of speech is often an instrument of the true artist. Miss Grant said, reading Carl Sandburg's "Fog" as an excellent example of this. The magic of words, although baffling and inexplicable, is often the essence of great work.

In comparing modern with contemporary poetry, Miss Grant mentioned the works of Massfield as an illustration of the modern's objective point of view while contemporary poetry shows a definite trend toward the introspective. The influence of the nineteenth century poet, Gerard Hopkins, may be traced through contemporary poetry, she said, and suggested even a hint of Shelley's style in some. Miss Grant felt that the swing from the physical of the moderns to the spiritual of the contemporaries is a very encouraging sign.

The next talk, "My Book Shelf," by Mrs. Albert Sullivan, will be given Friday at 8 p.m. This series is sponsored by the Y Girls' Council, and is open to any interested girls or women without charge.

Jobless Girls Helped By Tests

"Y" and Education
Dept. Aid
Stenographers

The Y.W.C.A. announces that through the technical branch of the Provincial Department of Education, and the co-operation of the Victoria School Board, the opportunity has been greatly increased for unemployed stenographers to keep up practice to maintain and improve their speed in typing and shorthand.

In the fall of 1935, with the co-operation of the Soroptimist Club, the Y.W.C.A. provided accommodation and supervision for regular practice hours, giving weekly tests and keeping full records. No fees were charged for this service.

During that winter over 100 girls took advantage of this opportunity for periods of several months each, when out of work. Thus when the possibility arose they were able to take satisfactory tests and secure positions.

Under the Y.W.C.A. this winter the classes have been continued with a registration of forty, but the equipment for typing practice was still very limited, with few machines.

A request for assistance made to the technical branch of the Provincial Department of Education met with ready sympathy and support. Arrangements have been made for the use of the equipment in the Victoria High School, Monday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, 3.30 to 5.30, under the direction of Mr. Vaughan Fritchard. Any girls who have taken a stenographic course and wish to take advantage of this splendid opportunity for further practice will register with the Y.W.C.A. No fees are charged.

A club group has been organized among those of the practice classes to meet for "Know Your City" trips, also for talks on business methods and relationships.

Carne Rebekahs—The officers and members of Carne Rebekah Lodge No. 45 I.O.O.F. have been invited to attend in a body the regular meeting of the Beaver Theta Rho Girls' Club No. 4, in the Oddfellows Hall, Douglas Street, on Saturday, March 13, at 7.30 p.m., to witness the conferring of the initiatory degree. The members of the degree staff of Carne Rebekah Lodge No. 45 are asked to attend practice at 8 p.m. sharp on Thursday, March 11.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

1. How would you address a business letter to a lawyer?

2. Is "Rev John James" the way to address a letter to a protestant clergyman?

3. Is it correct to address an envelope "John Smith?"

4. Is "Thanking you in advance" correct usage?

5. Is "Sincerely yours" too informal a close for a business letter?

What would you do if—

You must answer a business letter which has been signed only "Louise Wright Goodman?"

(a) Address her as "Mrs. Louise Wright Goodman?"

(b) Address her as "Miss —?"

(c) Address her as "Louise Wright Goodman?"

Answers

1. Mr. John Henry Brown, attorney-at-law.

2. No. "The Rev. John James."

3. No, a title should always be used.

4. No.

5. No, it is fast replacing "Yours very truly" and other more formal closes.

Best "What Would You Do?" solution—(b), since there was no indication that she was married.

Weddings

HEATLEY-WALKER

In the presence of a large gathering of their intimate friends and professional associates, the marriage of Thomas Heatley, Chief of Police of Victoria, and Miss Margaret W. Walker, retired police matron, was solemnized at the Metropolitan United Church this morning at 11 o'clock.

Rev. E. F. Church performed the ceremony, and the bride was attractively gowned in navy blue with a hat and accessories to match and wore a corsage bouquet of roses and bouvardia. Mr. E. E. G. Astell gave the bride in marriage and she was attended by her sister, Mrs. Ruby Walters of Vancouver. Chief Heatley was supported by his son, Mr. George Heatley.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Heatley left for a honeymoon at an unknown destination, and on their return will make their home at 1406 Myrtle Street. They were the recipients of many handsome gifts.

Queen Names Ladies In Waiting

Canadian Press from Havas

London, March 8.—Queen Elizabeth last week named the Duchess of Northumberland Mistress of the Queen's Robes, a position of honor in the coronation ceremony.

She also appointed four Ladies of the Bedchamber—Countess Spencer, Viscountess Halifax, Viscountess Hambleden and Baroness Nunburnholme.

As Mistress of the Robes the Duchess will walk immediately behind the Queen during the coronation ceremonies as the actual crowning takes place. She will bear the Queen's train, assisted by four ladies-in-waiting.

The Duchess of Northumberland is the youngest daughter of the seventh Duke of Richmond. Her husband died in 1930 when her eldest son succeeded to the title.

Princess Patricia Lodge—Princess Patricia Lodge No. 238 Order of the Daughters of St. George held their business meeting Friday night in the K. of C. Hall, the president, Mrs. H. Graham, in the chair. The meeting opened with the dropping of the charter for the late Mrs. K. E. T. Lane.

Mrs. M. Wright reported on the past president's night and thanks was extended to all who helped to make it a success. A committee was formed to make arrangements for the St. George's day banquet, which will be held in conjunction with Victoria Lodge No. 88 and Sons of St. George.

Time and place to be announced later. Mrs. K. Kerring, Mrs. M. Wright and Mrs. E. A. Restell are in charge.

St. Mark's W.A.—The monthly meeting of St. Mark's W.A. will be held in the parish hall tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Junior Catholic League—The monthly business meeting of the Junior Catholic Women's League will be held tomorrow evening at the home of Misses K. and M. Morry, 1339 Stanley Avenue, at 8 o'clock.

Second Mile Club—The regular monthly meeting of the Second Mile Club of the First Baptist Church will be held in the home of Mrs. Cave, 520 St. Patrick Street, on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Members are reminded of the auction of superfluous which will take place during the evening.

Belmont Ladies' Aid—The Ladies' Aid of Belmont Avenue United Church are planning for a supper to be held in the schoolroom on Tuesday, March 16, at 6.15 p.m. Following the supper a lecture illustrated by lantern slides depicting life in Japan will be given by Dr. W. J. Siprell commencing at 8 p.m. Musical numbers are also being planned. Mrs. F. W. Emery is president of the group.

Lodge Met—The Victoria Lodge No. 83, Order Daughters of St. George, was held in the Sons of England Hall recently with the worthy president, Sister Nunn in the chair. All sick members were reported improving. One new member was initiated into the order, and a silence of two minutes was observed in memory of a sister who passed away recently. The W.D.D. Sister Jane installed the treasurer for the ensuing term. The next meeting will be held on March 17 at 7.30 p.m., after which there will be a card game at 8.45 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Knox Home Helpers—A special meeting of the Young Women's Home Helpers' Circle of Knox Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. J. S. Patterson, Esquimalt Road, to which the members of the Women's Missionary Society were invited. The president, Miss Peggy McPhail, presided. Miss L. Feltton spoke on missionary work. Her talk was very much enjoyed by all those present and a hearty vote of thanks was accorded her for her kindness in coming to the meeting.

The meeting opened with prayer by Mrs. J. Dempsey and Scripture reading by Miss Louise Patterson. Mrs. A. A. McKinnon closed the meeting with prayer. A social half-hour was afterwards spent, during which Mrs. J. S. Patterson rendered a solo, which was much enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the members of the circle.

Far West Assembly—Far West Assembly No. 30 Canadian Daughters' League met recently at the Truth Centre, the president, Mrs. F. Brien, in the chair. The annual election of officers took place, their installation to be in April, for which Mrs. F. Fitzsimmons was named as convener of arrangements. Mrs. V. Dowdall gave an interesting report of the annual meeting of the Local Council of Women. Mrs. F. Brien was chosen as delegate to attend the provincial convention to be held in Vancouver during the first week of April and Mrs. C. Cottell was named as alternate

HER NAME IN LIGHTS

By MAIR BLAZARD

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DAPHNE BRETT, food-loving, successful young New York advertising executive, rents the Connecticut estate her father left her when he died to LARRY SMITH, attractive architect, and promptly became interested in him. Daphne has one sister, JENNIFER, six years younger, who is just out of college and has come to New York to live with her.

Jennifer's coming proves quite a test to Daphne because Jennifer is a bit more from life than a career. Jennifer is a bit more from life than a career. Jennifer is a bit more from life than a career.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER VII
Larry Smith wasn't married! He lived at Brett Hall with his mother and his aunt.

Daphne said, "Let's have frog's legs for dinner and something like a sweet."

"Not for me. My figure means too much," Jennifer answered promptly and stretched her little form full length on the lounge. Why the sudden celebration?

Daphne couldn't tell her that she was suddenly light and gay inside her—lighter and gayer than she had been these last two months. She couldn't say that it made her happy to know that Larry Smith wasn't married. She took her happiness into the kitchen and rattled her pans and plates noisily.

She knew that would keep Jennifer out of the kitchen and she wanted to be alone to think. She wanted to think of her own stupidity and to savor the knowledge that he had dropped in to pay her, Daphne, a call.

He must have, she reasoned, because he didn't know Jennifer. But now he had seen Jennifer. For a brief moment the thought of Jennifer's overwhelming beauty depressed her. Then she set her mouth in the determined line she sometimes found there when she had a difficult problem at the agency to overcome.

Let Jennifer take what was hers and fight for a little competition. Not that she was in love with Harry Smith—

She dismissed the thought instantly as being ridiculous. And admitted that he was the first man in her life that she had wanted to know, wanted to make her friend. The first man to whom she had been instantly attracted. The first man she had ever known so briefly and never been able to forget. Even Anne had sensed that.

She thought of Tuck and Andy and a small frown puckered her smooth forehead. Could it be possible that she had had her moments when she thought of taking Tuck seriously? Tuck was a dear. She'd introduced him to so many attractive girls who had raved about him yet he was devoted to her—as devoted as he could be. And he had asked her to marry him.

"Well," she said to the salad she was making. "If someone like Larry Smith doesn't come into my life, I'll probably marry someone like Tuck some day."

"How was the job today?" she said to Jennifer when they were seated at the candle-lit table. Usually she avoided the subject since Jennifer could be so explosively unhappy about it. Tonight her sense of well-being spread to tolerance even of that unpleasantness.

"Lousy," Jennifer said concisely. "Darling, why don't you attack it from a different point of view? You wanted to work in Wall Street and you're working there. There must be something good about it. I know that you're not used to being cooped up but that's what goes with a job like that. When you get to like it, it doesn't seem confining. What, exactly, is the trouble?"

"Men," Jennifer said. "The wrong ones. There are some awfully attractive boys in the outfit but I never even get a chance to meet them. Then old Harrison asks me to lunch and today he wanted to know if he could have a date with me on Friday night. You can imagine what I said!"

"I can," replied Daphne. "Of course, Harrison is thirty-five, and that isn't the doddering age. And he does have a social position. You might as well learn now as later. Jennifer, that's attractive boys you meet this way have girls in their own set."

"I'd like to know if you mean that I'm not good enough for them? The Bretts aren't exactly poor white trash."

"I know," Daphne went on patiently, "but we can't go around with a marked 'B' of the social register pinned on our frocks. And we can't talk about it. New York is a hard town, Jennifer. The working girl is labeled the working girl here as same as anywhere else if she does appear to have more chances. She has to work for them. You can't see a job as a social wedge. Not your kind of a job."

"Why not?" Jennifer disagreed. "If I get a chance to meet the kind of men I want to meet, why can't I take advantage of the opportunity? If a chorus girl—"

"You're not a chorus girl, Jennifer."

"Not yet," Jennifer said, and seeing the shadow darken her sister's face, she got up, came around the table and kissed Daphne on the top of her head.

"You're like a naughty child," Daphne said, "and you'll have to be punished for frightening me. You can wash the dishes and I'll wipe them."

Jennifer splashed water merrily on her smart frock. "Don't bother about it, I can send it to the cleaners."

Daphne wanted to protest that every dollar—

"Why didn't you tell me how attractive the Brett tenant is?" Jennifer demanded and Daphne had no answer. She didn't or hadn't seen much point in extolling the attractions of a married man to her young sister.

"I thought he was very attractive the one time I saw him," she said, concentrating on the glass she was drying.

"The trouble with you, Daph, is that you don't know how to make the best of your opportunities."

Daphne raised a quizzical eyebrow. Jennifer went on:

"I do! The one time you saw him, indeed! I saw him once and made up my mind I was going to see him again."

"There's a 9 o'clock train. You might run out and ask him if the water pipes are working," Daphne said dryly.

"No need for that. I'm subtle. I'll do it my way—the subtle way."

"It's a great help to be subtle," Daphne agreed pleasantly.

"What are you doing Sunday afternoon?" Jennifer asked a minute later. Daphne suppressed a smile. Was this the subtle way?

"Sunday? Let me see—oh, yes, the Franklands are having a supper party for Kim Preston and his bride. We're both invited. Don't you remember. You said you were going to wear your black velvet."

"Oh, heavens! Another of those dreary supper parties?" How Jennifer had angled an invitation to the last one. "I think I'll cut it. I never get a chance to get outdoors and on my one day away from the office I have to stand around a smoky living-room with a lot of old fogies."

Daphne digested the disclosure in Jennifer's speech.

Daphne buried her face in the Sunday newspaper and pretended not to see Jennifer's discomfiture. She stretched her legs in her velvet lounging pyjamas as though she were settling down for the winter.

"It's three, Daph. Aren't you going to get dressed?"

Jennifer looked at the little wrist watch under her tweed sleeve.

"What are you going to do?" Daphne asked lazily.

"Tuck is coming around in his roadster. We thought we'd drive in the country."

"That must be Tuck now," she said when an impetuous rap sounded at the door.

It was Tuck.

"Hello, kids. What's this? The demon worker Daphne in pyjamas at this time of day?"

Daphne managed a look of appealing sweetness.

"Don't scold, Tuck. I'm feeling lazy and fuzzy and dreading going to a smoky party with a lot of old fogies."

Jennifer gave her a sharp glance. "Then why go?" Tuck said at once as Daphne had intended he should. "Get into your clothes and come with us."

"Where are you going?" she asked innocently.

"Thought you knew. No place special. Ben wanted to drive up to Brett Hall to see the foliage."

"Well," Daphne answered over her shoulder as she disappeared into her bedroom, "since you're going no place special, I'd like to see the foliage myself. I'll be ready in a jiff."

Jennifer's angry eyes missed hers.

To Show Films—Under the auspices of Queen of the Island L.O.B.A., on Wednesday evening, at 8:30 o'clock, a movie will be shown of beautiful Canadian scenery. Several reels will be shown of pictures not exhibited here before. It is hoped that brother and sister lodges will attend. There will be a musical programme and silver collection.

Loggers Get Wage Increase

Employees of Comox Logging Company Secure 10 Per Cent Raise

Courtenay, March 8.—Announcement of a 10 per cent wage increase for their employees is made by the Comox Logging and Railway Company. It is expected that the increase will be general throughout the industry.

The logging and sawmill payroll for the area circumscribed by Courtenay, Cumberland and Panny Bay alone has been reckoned at $850,000.

The Comox Logging and Railway Company will run a work train to and from Courtenay every morning to serve their employees at Headquarters and Camp 3. Several houses have changed hands and there is a good demand for city property.

In the area tributary to Campbell River the C.R.T. has already commenced logging. Buckers and fallers are already at work at the Elk River timber at Quinsam and near Menzies Bay for Bloods and other crews will be busy in the woods this week.

Honeymoon Trip As First Prize

"What is so rare as a day in June?" June in England: Who wouldn't be thrilled at the thought—especially when the means of getting there is on the sumptuous Cunard-White Star liner the Queen Mary? And some lucky Canadian couple will honeymoon on this luxurious sea-palace as the guests of Bluebird Diamond Rings, according to word received by Little & Taylor, Joseph Rose, Ltd., and other Bluebird dealers.

This marvelous trip, covering a three-week period, is the grand prize in the Bluebird Diamond contest being conducted locally, and in honor of Coronation Year. The lucky winners may take the trip any time after June 15 of this year, for a period of three weeks; five days on the Queen Mary, a whole week or more in England and Scotland, and the rest of the time on another big Cunard-White Star liner coming home, including a Bluebird Diamond Platinum Watch, a 122-piece set of "Coronation" Community Plate, a superb four-piece Wm. A. Rogers tea set, and several cash prizes.

It is believed that there will be more marriages this year than for the past six years, so that this contest will appeal to a great many couples.

For the benefit of the winners who may be unable to do the whole trip in three weeks, an alternative honeymoon is offered to New York, Hollywood, or Quebec.

Girls End 4,000 Mile Ski Trip

Associated Press

Moscow, March 8.—Five pretty Mongolian girls were here today after a 3,985-mile ski-hike from Ulan-Ude Buryat, Mongolia. The girls started the trip last October 21, hiking the first 625 miles before snow overtook them. They completed the trek on skis, reaching here Saturday.

DOUGLAS ST. STORELATEST
BOOKSAt the Library

917.14—"Quebec: Where Ancient France Lingers" (Charles Marius Barbeau). A book about Quebec which emphasizes its lingering French characteristics and its arts and crafts. Illustrations include reproductions of paintings, photographs of art objects and drawing by Marjorie Borden.

915.42—"Pilots' Book of Everest" (The Marquis of Douglas and Clydesdale and D. P. McIntyre). The squadron leader and the flight lieutenant of the Houston-Mount Everest Expedition present in this book the part played by airplanes and their crews in the expedition. The flight to India is described and the life led by the party during this period of waiting; and then the actual flights made in April, 1933.

916—"Restless Jungle" (Mary Lee J. Akeley). An account of the author's expedition in 1935-36 into the lion and elephant countries of southern Africa. To anyone who is interested in animals this record of adventure and observation is very alluring indeed.

910.4—"Westward Bound in the Schooner Yankee" (Irving Johnson and Harriet E. Johnson). The schooner Yankee was once a Dutch pilot boat, and the Loodschooner 4. Later it belonged to an English yachtsman, from whom the Johnsons purchased it. In the refitted Yankee the Johnsons collected a company of young people and set out on a world cruise. Their trip began at Gloucester, from whence they went through the Panama canal, the South Sea, where they stayed nearly a year. They visited Tahiti, Pitcairn Island, Manga Reva, the new Hebrides, the Solomons, the Admiralty Islands. Next they went to the Malay Archipelago, sailed through the Indian Ocean, touched at Capetown, and thence across to British Guiana, the West Indies and home. "Westward Bound in the Schooner Yankee" is an authentic sea book, a fluent story of a real journey, where adventure came naturally, without extraordinary mishaps and with plenty of opportunity for observation.

904—"Reasons for Anger" (Robert Briffault). "Robert Briffault, the anthropologist writer on sociological problems, declares that he is not angry, but that many of his reviewers have been." In this volume he has collected a number of his essays, previously published, which reveal reasons for anger. Partial contents: Stupidity; charity and the state; nationalism and culture; sex in religion; family sentiments; taboos on human nature; epilogue: Is man improving?

940.28—"Before the War: Studies in Diplomacy: v.1. The Grouping of the Powers" (George Peabody Gooch). "Before the War" is the first of two volumes of studies in the relations of the Great Powers between 1897-8 and 1914. In this first volume Dr. Gooch describes the aims and methods of Lansdowne, Delcasse, Bulow, Isvolsky and Aehrenthal.

940.48—"I Saw Them Die" (Mrs. Shirley Millard). An American girl's experiences as nurse in a French hospital during the last eight months of the war. The narrative is made up of pages from the diary she had kept, with connecting and amplifying passages written nearly twenty years later.

B 717b—"The Kaiser and English Relations" (Edward Frederic Benson). A psychological study of William II, showing how his life, his character, and his policies were influenced by the fact of his relationship to the English ruling house. Mr. Benson has composed a biographical portrait from a series of anecdotes and episodes drawn from a very scattered field—ranging from intimate letters and memoirs to out-and-out diplomatic history.

B T 2615—"Catherine Tekakwitha" (Daniel Sargent). A biography of an Indian girl who became one of the most important of the early converts to Christianity. As a background to her life story the author writes in considerable detail concerning the civilization and the religious beliefs of her race and time.

B D264—"People, People Everywhere: Footprints of a Wanderer" (Robert Hobart Davis). Short anecdotes of many men and women whom this roving reporter has met or heard of during his extensive travels of the past thirty years or more. It is a big book of anecdotes from all parts of the world.

Additional titles in non-fiction are: "Houses for Modern Means," by R. Randall Phillips; "Making a Lithograph," by Stow Wengert (vol. XI, "How to Do It" ser.); "Leica Manual," by H. D. Morgan and Henry M. Lester; "How to Use Your Miniature Camera," by Ivan Dmitri; "Pacifism Is Not Enough," by the Marquis of Lothian; "Modern World: Political and Economic," by R. A. MacKay and S. A. Saunders; "Left Wings Over Europe," by Wyndham Lewis; "Hitler

Over Russia," by Ernest Henri; "Verdict of the League—China and Japan in Manchuria," by M. Ottmer; "Canada: The Empire and the League," by the Canadian Institute on Economics and Politics; "Human Life in Russia," by Ewald Ammende; "Money and Currency," by Norman Angell; "Official Life of Arthur James Balfour," by B. E. C. Dugdale; "Julius Caesar," by John Buchan; "Life of Earl Jellicoe," by Sir Reginald Hugh Spencer Bacon; and "Portrait of T. E. Lawrence," by V. Richards.

Removal of Italian children's tonsils wholesale is advised by the Congress of Italian Radiologists, a suggestion which, if followed, will mean 15,000,000 operations.

Editor Looking For New Writers

W. Lawson, editor of The New Frontier, a magazine published in Toronto and interested in developing new Canadian authors, was in Victoria over the week-end.

Mr. Lawson spoke to a public meeting on Sunday evening and addressed the luncheon of the Current Events Club this afternoon.

enough interested in what goes on around them," he said.

Among the contributors to The New Frontier are Rockwell Kent, Jack Conroy, Maxwell Bodenheim and Morley Callaghan.

Eastern Canadian poets who write for the magazine include Leo Kennedy, A. J. M. Smith, A. M. Klein and Dorothy Livesay, who now lives in Vancouver and is considered the most promising of the younger Canadian poets.

Friday night's meeting of St. Mary's troop of Boy Scouts opened at 7:30, with Duty P.L. Jerry Pugh breaking the flag. In the inspection, the Scouts were judged the neatest patrol, with

Scout Ronnie Baird of the Owls the neatest individual scout. Two lively games, one of them a pick-a-back relay race, were enjoyed and were followed by the usual period of instruction by the patrol leaders. A Kim's game of magazine advertisements followed. In the King's game of last week the Owls came first, with Owls and Gulls tied for second place. An interesting talk on pulp and paper-making was given by troop leader Fred Gornall who has visited the mills at Powell River several times. Some of the samples shown were sent down specially for this talk by ex-scoutmaster Bob Gornall, who now works at Powell River. At the closing ceremonies announcement of the team to enter the swimming gala next week was made. Cyril Pridham and Doug Leggett received their second and first year service stars respectively. Two Vancouver scouts, Bob and Harry Doe, have transferred into the troop.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., March 8 (Canadian Press)—Action on behalf of unemployed ex-service men who last fall filled out government questionnaires and have been waiting to learn what is to be done was urged here yesterday by C. Grant MacNeil, C.C.F. member of Parliament for Vancouver North, addressing a meeting of ex-service men.

TRIPLE SQUEEZE SUCCEEDS

Declarer's Long Trump Suit Enables Him to Force Out Threat Cards in Three Other Colors

By WM. E. MCKENNEY

Certain types of bridge hands are interesting in themselves, and doubly interesting because they are extremely rare.

One of the most unusual hands is the one which presents a squeeze in three suits. This means that a player who has apparent defence in three suits finds himself helpless when he is compelled to part with one valuable card after another on the run of a long suit by the declarer.

This was the situation that confronted William J. Eck of Cleveland, when, as declarer sitting North, he played today's hand.

The bidding is very unusual. South's opening bid of one diamond was to make it easy for his partner to show four of either major suit. When he failed to do so, South decided to suppress both suits and try for game in no trump.

North, with his long and practically solid suit, and very fine support for his partner's diamonds, decided that there was a much safer game in the minor and refused to permit the hand to play at no trump.

It is hard to blame East for doubling, as he had a very strong hand and from the bidding figured on a sure trump trick.

Opening lead of the king of spades was won in dummy with the ace. A club finesse was taken, and was won.

Today's Contract Problem

South is playing the contract at seven spades. His only chance to make the grand slam, even with the favorable opening, requires careful handling of the club suit, as well as favorable location of the club honors. How should he plan the play?

by East. East returned another spade, which North won with a trump.

Declarer then proceeded to lead five more rounds of trump. East found the matter of discarding increasingly difficult. On the last trump lead he held the jack of spades, and the king and queen of hearts and his original diamond holding.

Any discard would be fatal, and thus North fulfilled his doubled slam contract in a most unusual way. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service Inc.)

LUDWIG KEMPF DIES IN OTTAWA

Ottawa, March 8.—Ludwig Kempff, sixty-four, German consul-general in Canada, died in a hospital here today after a week's illness following an appendicitis operation.

Mr. Kempff had a long career in the German foreign service.

Surviving are the widow and two sons who were educated in Montreal and who are now in Germany. One son is in the diplomatic service and the other in the army.

The body was taken to Montreal this afternoon and a funeral service will be held there Wednesday.

Boston and Americans Winning Clubs in Major Hockey Clashes

THE SPORTS MIRROR

THE BOSTON RED SOX, who have spent more than $500,000 for infielders since Thomas Austin Yawkey purchased a run-down franchise four years ago, will start eighteen-year-old Bobby Doerr at second base this spring.

Doerr comes up from San Diego, where he hit a rousing .342 in the long Pacific Coast League season of 1935 games.

Eddie Collins doesn't expect Doerr to have complete mastery of all the technique of second basing in this, his third season in professional baseball.

Having played considerable second base himself, the general manager of the Red Sox realizes that a second baseman never reaches the point when he feels that he has all the intricacies of the position down pat. "I never got so I felt that I had mastered every possibility which might arise in playing second," says Collins. "There are too many different situations, presented by different players, and in slightly different ways. Just when you get to thinking that you've got all the answers, somebody presents a new problem, and you have to wrestle with it on the spur of the moment."

Clubs without capable second basemen don't get very far. Like catching and shortstoping, it is a post where batting frequently can be sacrificed for fielding skill. Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig have done the long-range clouting, but Tony Lazzeri at second base has been the key man and greatest team factor for the Yankees throughout eleven campaigns.

A natural leader, Lazzeri has a deal to do with tactical employment of the club in the field. Gehrig will tell you how pleasant it is to perform alongside the Italian. Lazzeri has been of much assistance to Frankie Crosetti at short. He has helped his fellow San Franciscan mentally and actually over many a rough spot.

Rogers Hornsby, a second baseman, drove the St. Louis Cardinals to their first pennant and world championship in 1926. The Red Birds since have been driven to four flags, two world championships and to second place in three occasions by the Raja's successor, Frank Frisch.

Billy Herman, a second baseman, supplied the Chicago Cubs with what they required in 1932, his first full season in the big show, and played an important role as they broke through again in 1945.

One of the biggest differences between the New York Giants of 1936 and the Polo Grounders who cracked up in the stretch the two previous seasons was, Burgess Whitehead at second base. The last good Washington club spun around Buddy Myer, their second baseman.

Collins traveled to California to personally scout Doerr the last two seasons. He believes that the Los Angeles lad has it in him to make good.

"But you never can tell what the pressure of big league competition will do to a youngster," asserts the one-time cocky second sacker of the Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago White Sox. "You never know how he will react to the new situation. He may tighten up and lose confidence. Doerr appears to be a fine prospect, however. He has a great keenness for the game and good baseball instinct."

Doerr stands 5 feet 11 inches and comes in at 175 pounds. He bats right-handed.

Bruins Set Back Rangers on Lone Goal By Rookie

Dumart Nets Puck With Minute and Half to Play; Amerks Whip Detroit

Toronto Leafs And Hawks Tie

There was only one undecided berth in the Stanley Cup line-up today, thirteen days from the National Hockey League's schedule end. Five teams are sure of play-off spots and Chicago Black Hawks will have to perform a modern hockey miracle to oust New York Rangers from the picture.

New York Americans did much to settle things by losing to Montreal Maroons 4 to 3 Saturday night in Montreal. That put Red Dutton's fighting team definitely out of the playoffs and left the only Canadian section fight the battle between Maroons and Toronto Maple Leafs for second place.

But Chicago refuse to be tossed out this early. They held Leafs to a 2 to 2 tie in Chicago last night and retained the slimmest possible chance of finishing ahead of Rangers. If they win their next five games and Rangers lose all theirs, Hawks will tie them in points and take the third spot in the American division by a better win average.

Neither Boston Bruins nor Detroit Red Wings can be beaten out of play-off spots. Bruins made sure of getting in by taking a 1 to 0 decision from Rangers last night and moving three points up on Lester Patrick's team.

A 3 to 1 overtime win over Montreal Canadiens in Toronto Saturday and the tie last night put Leafs on even terms with Maroons for second place. Red Wings could have made positive of first place in the American division by beating Americans last night, but the New Yorkers took them 3 to 1 in Detroit. The world champs need only one more point to make it impossible for Bruins to catch them.

Lorne Carr really defeated the Wings with goals in the first and second periods. Pete Kelly made it close for a while in the second, but Neil Stewart came through with a goal that put the game away for the New Yorkers.

Amerks gave everything they had at Montreal in an effort to stay in the fight and the clash provided some of the most bruising hockey of the week-end.

COME FROM BEHIND
Maroons had to come from behind to snatch the victory, starting the third period they trailed 2 to 1. Stewart and Tommy Anderson having scored for the New Yorkers and Baldy Northcott for Maroons. Then Gerry Carson, Earl Robinson and Stew Evans barged through for goals and the best Amerks could do was one counter-by Happy Emms.

A rookie from Kitchener, Ont., Woody Dumart, provided the only goal of the Boston-Ranger game. Like the American-Maroon game, it was a body-bumping duel and the heavier Bruins came out of it in better shape. Dumart's goal came with only a minute and a half of the third to play.

Harvey Jackson thrilled 14,300 fans in the Maple Leaf Gardens with the winning goal against Canadiens. Charlie Conacher and Paul Haynes each had given their teams a counter in the third and the overtime was only two minutes old when Jackson worked with Jimmy Fowler and Syl Apps for the winner. Fowler made it sure with a lone effort shortly after that. Canadiens lost the services of Toe Blake, who broke his right wrist.

The assist Apps got on the Jackson goal and another he picked up in Chicago last night left him only a point behind Larry Aurie, Detroit, the league leader, who failed to score in the game with Americans. Apps' assist at Chicago came on Conacher's second period goal which tied the (Turn to Page 12 Col. 2)

Cup Football Draw

London, March 8.—West Bromwich Albion, conqueror of Arsenal in the sixth round of the English Cup, will play Preston North End on the Gunners' ground at Highbury in one of the semi-finals for the famous soccer trophy. The draw for the penultimate round, to be played April 10, was made today.

In the other tussle Millwall, third division giant-killer of such noted teams as Chelsea, Derby County and Manchester City, will oppose the winner of the sixth-round replay between Sunderland and Wolverhampton. If the Wolves win the replay at Roker Park this week the semi-final will be fought at Liverpool, but if Sunderland is successful, the encounter will be staged at Huddersfield.

Nelson Takes B.C. Ice Title

Nelson, March 8.—The Kootenay Interior district will supply British Columbia's Allan Cup representative for the twelfth consecutive year. Saturday night the Nelson Maple Leafs, champions of the West Kootenay Hockey League, blasted Vancouver Canadians, of the Vancouver Amateur Hockey League, 10 to 3 for their second win in the best of three series for the provincial title.

Leafs won the first game here Thursday night, 5 to 1.

LEE STEIL IS DOUBLE CHAMP

Adds Men's Handicap Title to Open Crown in Mid-winter Golf Tourney

Lee Steil, lanky golfer from Seattle, made history at the Victoria club on Saturday afternoon, when he added the handicap championship of the annual Empire midwinter tournament to his open title won in the morning.

Steil took the handicap final from Paul Glaser, also of Seattle, 4 and 2. It was the first time since the tournament was inaugurated nine years ago that a player had lifted both titles.

In defeating Glaser, whom he conceded ten strokes, Steil played good golf. After dropping the first hole through taking three putts Steil won the second to square matters. Steil won the third hole and Glaser used a stroke to half the fourth. The fifth and sixth were halved. Steil went out of bounds at the seventh and Glaser squared the match again.

INCREASES LEAD
Steil got down a length putt at the eighth to go one up again. The ninth was halved. Steil went two holes in the lead by winning the tenth. The eleventh was halved, but a birdie gave Steil the twelfth and a three hole margin. The thirteenth was halved with Steil taking the fourteenth. At the fifteenth Steil again went out of bounds to allow Glaser to win the hole. Glaser got into a lot of trouble at the sixteenth and finally picked up to give Steil the hole and the match.

Victoria players won the Matsun Cup with a score of 293. The local team for the inter-district match were: Freddy Painter, Alan Taylor, Dick Cox and Vic Painted. Gorge Vale took the interclub trophy with a score of 287. Their team follows: Freddy Painter, Dick Cox, J. Sangster and Clyde Banfield. The women's interclub match was won by Colwood with a score of 342. On the team were: Mrs. A. C. Stickley, Mrs. H. C. C. Bennett, Mrs. J. Macfarlane and Mrs. Zoe Huse.

THE BIG SEVEN

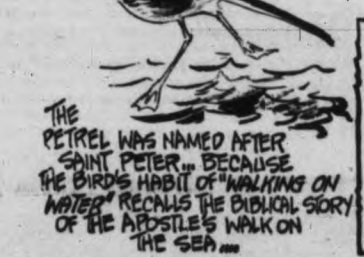

The sensation Sylvanus Apps and Detroit's veteran Larry Aurie moved into the second-last week of the National Hockey League schedule today with Toronto's star rookie again only a point behind Aurie, league scoring leader with forty-two points. Apps picked up a couple of assists during the week-end, while the leader went pointless. Marty Barry, also a Red Wing, moved back to third place another point behind, but still one ahead of Dave Schirmer, Americans.

JAMES ISLAND IN SOCCER WIN

Defeat Victoria Meat Market 2 to 0 and Take Saanich League Honors

About 250 soccer enthusiasts flocked to Hampton Road Park yesterday afternoon and saw the James Island soccer eleven measure the Victoria Meat Market squad for a 2 to 0 defeat. The victory gave the Islanders first-half honors in the Norman Whitaker Cup series of the Saanich and District Football League.

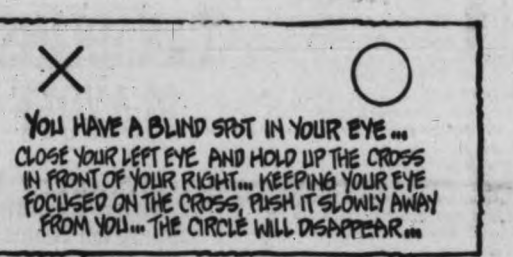

The game was inclined to roughness, with many fouls being called against either side. Late in the second half some of the players took exception to the dirty play and a pitched fist-throwing fray ensued to disrupt play. The fracas terminated with the interference of fans, but not before a number of bleeding noses had resulted.

The powder-plant workers had the edge on play throughout, but they missed many and found Goals Bob Wensley a capable netminder. The butcher boys failed to take advantage of their opportunities and missed many chances to score.

Pedens Finish In Fourth Position

Tied With Four Other Combinations in Mileage But Are Well Down in Points at Finish of New York Six-day Bike Race; Aerts-Debruycker Win

New York, March 8.—In one of the hottest finishes ever seen in Madison Square Garden, the Belgian team of Jean Aerts and Omer Debruycker won New York's sixty-second international six-day bicycle race Saturday night, coming from behind in the last hour of sprinting for a point victory.

Fifteen thousand fans turned out to see the Belgians overtake the team of Emile Ignat and Emile Diot with a series of sprint wins to pile up 1,001 points.

In the final sprinting Torchy and Doug attempted to lap the field, not worrying about points, but their efforts met a severe setback when Doug broke a wheel and went down. Although not seriously injured, the younger Pedens was badly felled.

Riding their first race together in New York, the two Canadians more than sold themselves as a team.

Five of the seven teams surviving the final jamming were deadlocked on a mileage basis, each with 2,370 miles seven laps for the race, but the Belgian and French teams made it a race between themselves through the last hour.

Bobby Thomas, Kenosha, Wis., and Tino Rebelo, Newark, N.J., finished in third place with 854 points.

Miles	Laps	Pts.
Aerts-Debruycker	2,370	7 1,001
Ignat-Diot	2,370	7 977
Thomas-Rebello	2,370	7 854
Peden-Peden	2,370	7 471

A meeting of the Affiliated Fish and Game Associations of Vancouver Island will be held in Nanaimo on Wednesday, March 17. Representatives from fish and game clubs all over the island will be present. Recommendations for the 1937-38 migratory birds season will be the chief business of the meeting.

BAYS DEFEAT NAVY SQUAD

Take Measure of Sailors 11 to 6 in Exhibition Fixture; Brigade Defaults

In an exhibition game marked by plenty of freak ball-handling on the part of both fifteens, Bob McInnes' James Bay Athletic Club rugger, first half champions in the Barnard Cup series, took the measure of the Navy men Saturday 11 to 6 at Macdonald Park.

It was only late in the second half that the rowing clubbers made their victory decisive. Twice during the fixture the Sailors pulled even with the Bays, but in the second half the blueshirts forged ahead to win.

Bays opened the scoring when Blair crossed over from a scrum near the line about twenty minutes from the start. The kick failed. Navy equalized several minutes later when "Red" Carney dribbled over. The kick was short. The Bays pulled themselves into the lead by half time, however, when Ken Buxton scored late in the initial stanza.

Sam Gardiner hit the scoring column about twelve minutes from the interval to put the sailors on even terms once more. Late in the game, Chris Usher tallied from a dribble, with Ronnie McCannan making the conversion.

Symons refereed. The teams were: J.B.A.A.—Painter, Gaunt, Fleming, McConnan, Buxton, Halsett, Langdon, Petticrew, Blair, Croft, Tobin, Rutlan, Forbes, Simpson and Usher.

Navy—Myres, Arnott, Rose, Briggs, Oliver, Carmel, Corbin, Darley, Burkmarr, Doyle, Barker, Gardner, Biondell, Woodley and McGary.

GUNNERS DEFAULT

A fifteen-minute error in punctuality cost the Fifth Brigade points when they failed to show up for their game with the Oak Bay Wanderers at the scheduled time Saturday afternoon.

The Oak Bay players and referee waited the fifteen minutes and then lined up and went over for a try. A bus carrying the Brigade players pulled up a few minutes later, and when informed of the decision the Gunners were a little upset.

After some persuasion the Brigade agreed to play a friendly game, the result being a 19 to 0 victory for the Wanderers. The Gunners refused to play with P. Willis named as the official, and a spectator handled the game.

Register 3 to 1 Victories Over Thistles and Esquimalt, Respectively, in Phoenix Cup Engagements Saturday Afternoon

Saturday's First Division Phoenix Cup soccer matches at the Athletic Park saw the Victoria West and Victoria City defeat Saanich Thistles and Esquimalt respectively by 3 to 1 scores. The Wests and City will meet in the final later in the season. Played under ideal conditions, the double-header attracted a fair crowd.

Although the Wests gained a 2 to 0 margin in the first half, the Thistles had just as much of the play, but their forwards threw away chance after chance to score.

Thistles got through for the first good shot when Robinson tested Restall with a low drive to the far corner. The Wests forced a corner only to have Leggett clear. At the other end Sage was in the clear, but his weak attempt was easily thwarted in by Restall. The Wests forced play and Bell tried a first timer from Morgan's cross, but was wide. A low drive from Morgan on the run forced Chalmers to his knees to block. Robinson tested Chalmers with a long pot, while O'Keil was right through only to drive the ball directly at the Saanich goal.

OPENING SCORE

At the twenty-five minute mark the Wests went into the lead, Robinson beating Chalmers on a pass from Watt. The two forwards showed nice combination to work the ball through the Thistles' defence and a set-up shot. Minutes later O'Keil made it 2 to 0 when he drove the ball into an open net. Chalmers having rushed out in an attempt to smother the shot.

The Thistles attacked and Stoffer rattled the crossbar with a terrific drive, Robinson missing the goal completely from the rebound. Joe Crowe was only six feet out only to drive the ball across the goalmouth. The Thistles had another opening when Restall fumbled a shot with Sage and Robinson in on top of him, but Bell rushed across the goal to kick clear. Just before half-time Chalmers dived across his net to push aside a shot from O'Keil.

Play in the second half slowed down considerably, with both teams ragging the play. After three minutes the Thistles got their lone goal. Joe Crowe gave "Nip" Sage a perfect pass in the goalmouth and the latter picked the far corner. In the final stages of play the Wests had matters pretty much their own way and scored their third goal when a slow shot from G. Barnes was fumbled by Chalmers and rolled into the net.

T. Robb refereed.
The teams follow:
Victoria, West—Restall, Sweeney, R. Bell, Emery, Barnes, H. Sage, G. Bell, Robinson, J. Watt, J. O'Keil, Morgan and G. Barnes.

Saanich Thistles—Chalmers, Esler, Leggett, Williams, Stoffer, Speller, Crowe, D. Gent, G. Robinson, Sage and English.

CITY VICTORS

After playing through a scoreless first season, Victoria City romped through for a trio of markers in the final stanza to defeat Esquimalt 3 to 1, in the second game on the double bill.

There was not much to choose between the two teams. Playing a good brand of ball, the clubs retired after the first forty-five minutes of play with no tallies to their credit. The City had the best of the territorial play in this half, but the Dockers counteracted with good defensive tactics.

With their strongest line-up doing duty on the field, the Dockers kept pace with their red-watered opponents right up until the half-way point of the final stanza—at which time the scoreboard read a 1 to 1 deadlock.

The City forwards opened up with stiff attacks on DeCosta's goal. The able netminder, however, guarded his net with expert ease, taking care of all that came his way. The Dockers' forays into City territory were seldom and brief. Most of the time they were forced back to hold off their pressing opponents. It was during one Esquimalt attack half way through the session that Wally Rowe made a spectacular save. He warded off a bullet-like drive from the boot of Eddie DeCosta from the penalty spot. For the remainder of the half the Dockers found their way to the City end more frequently, but here they encountered a hard-checking back division and the stalwart Rowe in goal. The netminder stopped many, turning in every bit as good a performance as DeCosta.

Play had only been in progress a few minutes in the final half when Vic Hicks, Esquimalt right lane man, (Turn to Page 12 Col. 1)

Du Pont Stable Tops

Associated Press
Los Angeles, March 8.—The millionaire William DuPont's string of race horses, headed by the great Rosemont, ran away with the biggest portion of purse money offered at the Santa Anita Park 1936-37 meeting.

Rosemont's victory in the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap and $7,500 San Antonio Handicap, Perry Hill's win in the $50,000 added Santa Anita Derby, Supremist's win in the $10,000 maiden event enriched the DuPont Foxcatcher Farm to the extent of $146,125.

Paymaster of purses Bob Rossi, checking up on the awards of the meeting just closed, disclosed that the runner-up amount went to the C. S. Howard stable, of which Sea Biscuit is the star. The winnings totaled $37,370.

Vancouver Players Take Four Canadian Badminton Titles

Dick Birch And Mrs. A. K. Patrick Dominate Finals

Joe Zaharko and Jack Sibbald, Toronto, Annex Men's Doubles Crown

Birch Wins In Straight Sets

Canadian Press
Vancouver, March 8.—The Canadian badminton spotlight swung today to the Pacific Coast, resting place of four Dominion crowns for the ensuing year, while a star eastern contingent of shuttlers rode homeward, all but shoved out of the picture with only a single championship salvaged from yesterday's final play.

Three brilliant British Columbians blazed their names across the 1937 title scene of the Canadian badminton championships here Saturday where the titles were won and lost. The trio were Mrs. Anna Kier Patrick, Vess O'Shea and Dick Birch, all of Vancouver, young in years but veterans of provincial and Dominion tournament play.

TRIPLE WINNER

The fair-haired Mrs. Patrick opened the coast drive for laurels annexing the women's singles, teamed later with Miss O'Shea for the women's doubles, while Birch was clinching the men's singles, three titles new to British Columbia this year. The Vancouver matron clinched the brilliant B.C. title here by combining with Birch to take the mixed title, last on the programme of the five open events.

Only the men's doubles was left to eastern stars. Joe Zaharko and Jack Sibbald, Toronto, lifted it after a hard, three-set battle with two prairie shuttlers, Claude Jones of Winnipeg and Art Snell of Calgary, only western entrants outside of British Columbia to reach the finals.

BIRCH VICTOR

Birch wrote a successful climax to fourteen years of badminton by lifting the singles crown which he never before has held. He beat out Toronto's Joe Zaharko, 15-11, 15-10. Blonde-haired Mrs. Anna Kier Patrick shared in three of the quadruple triumphs. She defeated Toronto's Mrs. W. R. Walton after a tough, three-set duel, 1-11, 11-8, 11-8 to lift the women's singles crown which the Toronto woman won last year. The Vancouver woman then went on to team with Vess O'Shea and lift the women's doubles crown from Ruth and Margaret Robertson, Ottawa, defending champions, 8-15, 15-10, 15-9.

Birch and Mrs. Patrick turned back the threat of Ruth Robertson and Bev Mitchell, Ottawa, for their mixed doubles crown, in straight sets, 15-6, 15-12.

WESTS AND CITY WIN CUP SOCCER

sagged the hem with a fast drive from the side at close quarters. Following the kick-off the City hammered hard at DeCosta's goal, and after five minutes George Payne with a left-foot drive tied the count when he registered during a scramble near Esquimalt's goal.

Play for the next fifteen minutes swung in either direction, with both goalies on their toes. About twenty minutes of play was left when George Payne passed to Brandow, centre forward. The small but speedy pivot man shot down the centre of the field on a solo flight, and with no one but the goalies to stop him slammed the leather into the corner, to give the City a one-goal lead.

The City continued their pressing tactics and on a couple of occasions DeCosta was nearly carried into the goal in blocking hard drives. Esquimalt tried hard for the tying goal, but to no avail, the staunch City defence halting many dangerous plays. With seconds to go before the finish, Tommy Halkett, City inside left, slammed the ball into the goal after accepting Youson's corner kick for the final tally.

Dave Swan refereed. The teams follow:
Victoria City—Bowe, Moody, Roper, C. Robbins, G. Robbins, Reside, Youson, Peers, Brandow, Halkett, Payne and O'Neil.

Esquimalt—DeCosta, Marsh, Laird, Robinson, Pearce, McBay, Hicks, Stewart, DeCosta, Tregallie and Barnswell.

SWISS SKIERS TAKE HONORS

Capture Canadian Championships at Banff; Engen Captures Jumping

Canadian Press
Banff, Alta., March 8.—Swiss skiers, experts in the art of twists and turns, earned high rankings yesterday as officials at the Canadian skiing tournament completed compilation of times marked up in Saturday's slalom championship event.

Pierre Francioli, a member of the six-man Swiss University team, barely edged out Walter Engen, Swiss coach of the Dartmouth winter outing club, for the title. Francioli's time for the two runs down the most difficult slalom course ever used for a Canadian championship was 1 minute 48 4-5 seconds, only 4-5 seconds better than Prager's time.

Louis Cochand, Quebec City's St. Laurentian Club, placed third with 1:56 and was the only North American to cut the Europeans out of the first half dozen places.

Engen, Salt Lake City, Utah, ski-jumping champion of the United States, yesterday added the Canadian crown in that division to his list of titles.

In the championship event at the Mount Norquay jump near here, Engen made two leaps, soaring 194 feet on his first and 208 feet on his second. Sverre Kolterud, Norway, placed second, with 192 and 194. Tom Hobraaten, the Olympic competitor from Vancouver, placed third with 188 and 192.

Engen won the event easily on form, the margin between Kolterud and Hobraaten was only a tenth of a point. Engen's point total was 220.2, Kolterud's 214.8 and Hobraaten 214.7.

CANADIANS IN PLAYOFF WIN

Local Cagers Trim Chemainus Club 37 to 11; Bremerton Teams Play

Sons of Canada trimmed the Chemainus Green Lantern quintette, 37 to 11, Saturday night, in an intermediate A boys' island playoff, tussle, that featured a four-game card at the High School Gym.

The local aggregation had little trouble in turning back their up-island opponents and had a 22 to 4 lead at the interval.

A trio of Bremerton teams provided the opposition for local teams in the other games on the card. The visitors won one and lost two. Bremerton Active Club lost to Liberty Cafe, 29 to 28, after a fast and close encounter, while the Charlton Athletic Club girls bowed to defeat at the hands of Gainers Superiors, 25 to 14.

Forging their way to the front in the last session, First National Bank of Commerce from Bremerton defeated West Saanich Mercantiles, 39 to 35. Bob Macmurchie and Bob Malcolm refereed.

Sea Hawks Beaten 2 to 0 By Spokane to Drop From Coast Hockey Race

Canadian Press
Seattle, March 8.—The ill-fated Seattle Sea Hawks, once a top-notch outfit in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, were no longer contenders in the circuit today, but the stretch drive for a bye into the playoffs went merrily on between the leading Portland Buckaroos and Vancouver Lions.

The third-place Spokane Clippers sank the Seattle club's last hope of gaining a playoff berth last night, handing them a 2 to 0 defeat and eliminating the last mathematical chance of easing into third place.

A glance at the standing today showed the highflying Portland team leading the circuit with forty-seven points with the Vancouver Lions in second place seven points behind. The Clippers were third with thirty-five points.

With but four games left to play on the schedule, three of them on the road, the second-place Lions faced the job of winning all their remaining five games of the schedule to beat Portland into first place and gain a bye into the playoffs.

Sailor Arnold Is Mat Victor

Pins Kent For Odd-fall Win in Main Wrestling Event; Hindu Winner

Gaining the winning fall in the sixth session with a flying scissors and a body press, Sailor Jack Arnold, Boston, defeated powerful Harry Kent, Portland, two falls to one when they tangled in the headline bout on Saturday night's wrestling show at the Tillicum gym.

Bringing into play his effective airplane scissors hold, Arnold gained the first fall in the third round. An expert of knocking his opponents dizzy with flying tackles, Kent used the same to even up the bout in the next round.

Kent opened up fast with flying tackles as the sixth round got under way. He bowled the sailor over a half a dozen times, and it looked like a victory for the Portlander. But Arnold suddenly sprang from the canvas and leaped on his opponent to adjust a flying body scissors hold.

They went down, Arnold rolled over on top and pressed Kent for the winning fall. Arnold weighed 220 pounds, ten less than Kent.

Still quite unfamiliar with North American wrestling holds, Harnam Singh, newest arrival from India, won a straight fall victory over "Wild-men" McDonald, Medford, Oregon, in the semi-main event. It was a poor bout. The Hindu, who has a pleasing personality, at least tried hard, and kept after McDonald all through the match. McDonald, who failed to live up to his role as a wild-man, turned in a miserable performance.

Singh got his falls with a half Boston crab in the third round and a body press in the next session.

Reg Hopkins wrestled his way to an odd-fall win over Bill Stein in the special event. They put on a lively and interesting show.

The show opened with a battle between Pat Norris and Young Doc Sorpalis, up-and-coming local grapplers, youngsters. The result was a no-fall draw after a good exhibition.

Bill Swan, Varsity forward, was outstanding in the first half, while his teammate, Art Willoughby, counted heavily in the second. Swan scored ten points and Willoughby nine.

Purvis and Bumstead each counted ten points for Province.

General Debility Can Be Overcome
Energy Builder Quickly Helps Recovery
Other people have vigor and energy to spare. If you haven't, if you feel weak and weary and the tasks of the day seem too much for you, it is probably because your system is nerve-tired. See what PHOSPERINE, the great British Tonic, can do for you.

"I was very depressed, and my nerves were in a very exhausted state," writes Mrs. P. Kay, 80 High St., Tooting, Eng. "What worried me mostly were frequent attacks of dizziness. I started taking PHOSPERINE. After only a few doses my head became quite clear and my strength steadily returned."

PHOSPERINE helps sufferers from debility, nerves and run-down mental energy quickly. It is concentrated nerve nourishment. Start taking PHOSPERINE now. Almost at once you are likely to feel the surge of vigor and energy that you may have despaired of ever knowing. Get the 1/2 lb. bottle from your druggist. It contains four times the 51 quantity, and 4 times as much as the 50c size. (Advt.) 66

ISLAND ROADS NEED REPAIRSA. H. Lyche of Ucluelet Says Unless They Are Improved Men Will Be Out of Work

"If the roads in the Central Lake district are not fixed a large number of men will be thrown out of employment, as the loading of trucks must now be cut 50 per cent so as not to ruin the surface," said A. H. Lyche, who is a visitor here today.

Mr. Lyche makes his home in Ucluelet, where he is proprietor of the Bayview Lodge. He traveled to Port Alberni by boat and came from there by road.

The roads up-land are in poor condition, Mr. Lyche said, and in that connection he called on Hon. George Pearson, Minister of Labor, today.

Mr. Lyche said there has been great activity around Barkley Sound in recent weeks. Commander G. T. Beard of the Esquimalt Naval Station and Wing-Commander Cuffe of the Jericho Beach station of the Canadian Air Force, have made several visits there in connection with future developments of the Department of National Defence.

For forty years Mr. Lyche has been a resident, off and on, of Ucluelet. Before that he lived in Victoria, where he arrived fifty-four years ago aboard the sailing vessel Latona, on which he shipped from London and went to Shanghai, later crossing the Pacific to Victoria, Joseph Bull of Victoria was with him on the same ship.

A native of Norway, Mr. Lyche married into the Lee family, whose old home stands on high ground across from the Jubilee Hospital and after whom Lee Avenue, in that district, was named.

Veterans Ask For Action on Report

Action at the present session of the Dominion Parliament on the interim report of the Veterans' Assistance Commission is being sought by the Canadian Legion.

Letters to Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., and J. S. Taylor, M.P., have been sent by British Columbia branches asking them to press the matter so that legislation may be brought down this session to take care of thousands of unemployed veterans in this province.

Acknowledgments have been received from both of the members of Parliament appealed to, and Dr. Tolmie in his reply states that the attention of the Minister of Pensions has been drawn to the report, and he has promised that it will be brought before the House at an early date.

Maclean, K.C., presented arguments for the defence at the resumption of the hearing before Judge J. N. Ellis in County Court this afternoon.

The monthly meeting of the Mount Douglas High School Parent-Teacher Association will be held Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the school auditorium. The speaker for the evening will be V. L. Denton, principal of the Normal School, who will take for his subject "Adjustment and Guidance in Education Today." Parents and friends of the school are welcome.

A protest from St. Saviour's Church against the closing of Victoria West firehall and an inquiry from the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway Company regarding a possible rise in rates in the district as the result of eliminating the hall, were received at the City Hall today. They will be considered at the council's meeting this evening.

McCulloch and Harvey are the designers and contractors for a handsome Colonial residence which is being erected on Beach Drive, The Uplands, at a cost of $10,000. It is a new type of home with the exterior of the ground floor finished in stucco and the upper story in weathered cedar. Specially-designed shutters in turquoise blue will be fitted to all the windows. The General Electric Company will install an oil-fired automatic heating plant with modern air-conditioning.

A general meeting of the Imperial Veterans' Association will be held tomorrow evening in the auditorium of the Army and Navy Veterans. Mayor McGavin will administer the declaration of loyalty to those who have joined the association. Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, C.M.G., D.S.O., of the Army and Navy Veterans, will be present, and a representative of the Canadian Legion is also expected. All ex-members of the Imperial Forces are cordially invited to be present.

In aid of the milk fund and athletic program of Margaret Jenkins School, a variety program of music, dancing and dramatics will be presented by the Parent-Teacher Association Friday and Saturday in the school auditorium. A phantasy which has been arranged and the dialogue for which has been written by D. B. McKay, vice principal, will open the program. All members of the staff have assisted in the coaching. The scenery was painted by W. A. Bayless, and Meadames A. Masters, C. J. Shaw and G. H. Morgan are responsible for the costumes. The second part of the program will consist of a comedy, "Twelve Good Men and True," by the "Twelve Girls," coached by Mrs. G. Pottinger.

Making of Seventh Local Movie Starts

Grass Planted in Willows Studio For Jail Courtyard Scene in Central Films Production "Women Against the World"; Stars Visit Sooke Harbor

"Print it," said Director David Selman at 9.35 o'clock this morning, and the first shot in the first scene of the seventh picture to be made in Victoria by Central Films Limited was completed.

From 8 o'clock this morning cameramen, property men, lighting men, sound men and actors had been getting the scene ready for taking. The scene, taken in the Willows Studio, was in the courtyard of a women's penitentiary, one of the principal centres of the action of the story, entitled "Women Against the World." A twenty-two foot stone wall was its background, with cement paths, grass and earth in front of it.

The grass, supplied by Brown's Victoria Nurseries, was lifted bodily out of a lawn and laid on the studio floor in strips. Peat moss provided the earth in which inmates of the penitentiary were planting seeds.

On a bench in the angle of the wall at the leading lady of the picture, Alice Moore, talking with a half-witted prisoner, played by Vivien Combe. Violet Wilson, in the high collar, black dress and key belt of the jail matron, walked across the courtyard supervising the coming and going of the prisoners.

Later this morning the company was to take interior scenes in the penitentiary. Shooting of "Women Against the World" is scheduled to take sixteen days, with 95 per cent of the scenes indoors.

VISITED SOOKE HARBOR
Yesterday afternoon Alice Moore and the comedienne of the picture, Collette Lyons, made their first acquaintance with the scenery on Vancouver Island outside Victoria.

Accompanied by David Selman, director, William "Scotty" Brown, assistant director, and James Lloyd, chief grip, they drove out to the Harbor House at Sooke. "It's a perfectly lovely spot," said Miss Moore, as she looked out from the lawn in front of the hotel across Sooke Harbor. Mr. Selman could not understand why the beauties of Sooke was not more widely advertised.

Major McGiverin Is Laid to Rest

A wealth of beautiful floral tributes and a large congregation of sympathizing friends marked the last rites Saturday for Major Harold M. McGiverin, R.C.M.C., who died at the Harbor House at Sooke. "Lead Kindly Light" was the only hymn sung. The casket was draped with a Union Jack. Remains were forwarded to Vancouver for cremation, and the ashes will be interred in the family plot at Royal Oak Burial Park on Tuesday at 11 o'clock.

Palbearers were Capt. Martin, C. Craig, Major R. D. Travis, Col. J. R. Kingham, Col. Brooke Stephenson, and Col. D. B. Martyn. Escorts from the 1st Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment were R.S.M. Robertson, R.Q.M.S. Warburton, C.S.M. Coutts, C.S.M. Dempster, C.S.M. Gourlay and C.S.M. Guyton.

FOREST PLANS TO BE TALKED

Forestry Head Calls Loggers to Conference on Restocking

Plans for rebuilding British Columbia's big forests on cut-over areas, especially those on crown-granted lands, will come under discussion here Thursday at a conference called by Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands.

Mr. Gray and the chief forester, E. C. Manning, will confer with leaders of the logging industry, to talk over methods of reforesting. This applies particularly, it was indicated, to Vancouver Island where there are large sections of logged-off crown grants.

The meeting Thursday arises out of attempts made at the last session of the Legislature to deal with the reforestation problem. An amendment to the Forest Act was introduced in the House giving the government power to order reforestation measures on crown grants but was subsequently withdrawn on the understanding that the forest branch and the loggers should get together on the subject.

The forest branch has made a careful study of logged-over island areas in the last year with a view to starting a new forest-building scheme.

EGYPT IN ARMS RACE
Cairo, March 8.—(Canadian Press from Havre).—Egypt today joined the rearming nations. The cabinet decided to authorize credits of £1,100,000 ($5,500,000) for the purchase of war material and airplanes.

She is survived by her husband, four sons, Morton, Sydney, Harold and Alfred, and one daughter, Rexta, all at home; one brother, K. Kramer, Victoria, and three sisters in Portland, Ore., Mrs. Goodman, Mrs. Stein and Mrs. Lavinson.

HENRY JAMES WOOD

Funeral services for Henry James Wood were held Saturday afternoon. Rev. Canon F. A. Chadwick officiating. Relatives and a large gathering of friends and representatives from the Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion, and the W. to B. Branch, Canadian Legion, were present. The congregational hymns sung were "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Peace, Perfect Peace," and Mrs. M. Morton sang the solo, "Lay My Head Beneath a Rose." The casket was covered and surrounded with a profusion of beautiful flowers. The following acted as pallbearers: E. Wood, P. Wood, H. Wood, R. Wood, R. W. W. and E. P. Pendray. The remains were laid to rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

DROPS DEAD IN VANCOUVERF. E. Doidge, Oak Bay Resident, Passes in Mainland City

Canadian Press
Vancouver, March 8.—Identified by police as Fred E. Doidge, retired businessman of Victoria, an elderly man was found lying on a downtown street early today. He was rushed to hospital, but was pronounced dead on arrival there.

Death was believed due to natural causes.

The late Mr. Doidge resided at 1239 Beach Drive with his family and was a retired druggist, being in business in Winnipeg for many years. Mrs. Doidge left this afternoon for Vancouver to make the arrangements for the funeral services.

A woman doctor will talk on "Medical Missionary Work in India" at the next meeting of St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. on March 15.

TWO HURT IN KNIFE AFFRAYRobert Powell Charged After Argument at Otter Point Forestry Camp

As the result of an altercation in the government forestry camp at Otter Point yesterday evening, Robert Powell was charged in the Provincial Police Court with wounding Joseph McKenzie.

Both men were engaged at the camp and McKenzie is alleged to have been wounded by Powell during an argument in a bunk house in which a knife is alleged to have been used by Powell.

K. Carson, another member of the camp was also injured by a knife wound. Police reported he attempted to intervene in the argument on McKenzie's behalf.

First word of the argument was received by Provincial Police yesterday evening when McKenzie was brought to the Jubilee Hospital by the assistant foreman of the camp and another official.

He was suffering from a knife wound in the left side below the ribs. While police were at the hospital Carson was brought in by J. F. Robinson, foreman at Milligan's Camp, and A. Harder. Carson was wounded in the buttock.

Constables Frank Pomeroy and S. Menzies from the district office were sent to Otter Point and shortly after their arrival they took Powell into custody.

When he appeared this morning he was remanded until Wednesday afternoon.

While Carson's wound was superficial the injury to McKenzie was more severe, although not serious. They were attended by Dr. J. Lennox.

Sentenced For Store RobberyKenneth Webster Given Two Years, Less a Day; Changes Plea to Guilty

Kenneth Webster was sentenced to two years imprisonment, less one day, when he pleaded guilty in the City Police Court this morning to a charge of breaking and entering R. S. Hawkes' shoe store, Trounce Alley, on the night of February 26. He formerly pleaded not guilty.

Webster was wounded in the leg by Constable John Blackstock during a chase along Government Street when he failed to stop in answer to the constable's warnings.

Giving details of the arrest, Constable Blackstock said he had been making regular night calls when he found the door of the shoe store open. He entered and went to the back door to see if it was secure. When he got to the back of the store he turned and saw the accused run out the front door.

He gave chase, shouting "Webster, stop." He chased him down Trounce Alley on to Government Street where he drew his revolver and fired. When arrested, he found the accused in possession of $2.20.

Four previous convictions, ranging over the last nine years, were read against the accused by C. L. Harrison, prosecutor.

P. J. Sinnott appeared for the defence and asked for leniency on the grounds the accused was an advanced tuberculosis case and was despondent.

After passing sentence the court ordered restitution of about $4 taken from the till of the shoe store.

"Y" TO SEEK EXTRA FUNDSAssociation to Launch Annual Drive For Funds This Evening

A more urgent appeal for funds will be made this year by the Y.M.C.A. when the association launches its annual financial campaign tonight with a dinner meeting of all workers in Spencer's dining room.

As the community chest will probably come into effect in 1938, and will receive the full support of the Y.M.C.A., the local association will have to carry on without appeal to the public for about eight months. W. T. Straith told majors and captains of the drive at their last meeting.

This condition exists owing to the fact the Y.M.C.A. holds its financial campaign at the end of its business year, which ends April 30. Therefore an appeal for larger subscriptions is urged at this time to meet expenses during the intervening months between May 1 and December 31.

To date, the special committee of the drive reports $1,000, an increase over last year's figures.

Dean S. Quantin will speak at the opening banquet this evening. Miss Catherine Craig will contribute vocal solos.

Included in the mass of statistics that are presented to the public on "Highlights of One Year's Work" is the item "1309 free nights' sleeping accommodation were provided." Behind this statement are many stories of deep interest.

It is difficult for the safe and sheltered to visualize the plight of a decent young man, suddenly stranded in a community in which he is not known. The Y.M.C.A. has assisted cases after case of this kind and received the heartfelt appreciation of the individual helped.

The Y.M.C.A. has never turned a young man from its doors who wanted temporary assistance.

In addition, the Victoria police department has the right to send any body to the Y.M.C.A. dormitory for free accommodation. This privilege is quite extensively used, and has proved a safety-valve for the city in the difficulty.

Chief of Police Thomas Hestley in a recent letter to the secretary said, "I desire to express my appreciation to yourself and the Young Men's Christian Association for the accommodation afforded by the association to destitute transients during the past winter. The association's work in this regard is a true community service, of great value to the police department, and one for which I am extremely grateful."

The Victoria night school geological class, under the direction of W. E. Cook and Gordon Hardy, visited Jordan River district on Sunday. Otter Point was first visited to obtain some fine specimens of epidote and calcite crystals and to view the migmatite structure. They then inspected the fossiliferous sandstone beds near Sandstone Creek, where the action of the sea has caused considerable erosion. The class next visited Wolfe Creek where the river flows over a bed of conglomerate. Then followed a tramp through the snow to the Sunloch mine. The party was shown through the Jordan River power plant of the B.C.E.R. by Louis Fatt. About thirty students enjoyed the outing.

Opera History Interesting

San Carlo Will Appear Here Easter Week-end With Three Offerings

The question, "What is an opera?" may very well be uppermost in everyone's mind the first time they attend opera, and even a seasoned opera-goer may have difficulty in trying to define this simple question.

An opera is a play set to music; but that is only part of the answer. It is more than that. Music being the language of the emotions, people sing their thoughts instead of speaking them.

About the year 1580 a group of Florentine scholars and musical amateurs began discussing the possibility of adapting music to the drama. The next step in the development of the new art was made by Monteverdi, whose "Orfeo" was produced in 1607.

The history of opera dates, hence, from Monteverdi. In the order of the development of composers of opera, the important ones were Handel, Rossini, Donizetti, Bellini, which brings operatic music up to the time of Verdi.

In North America operatic performances have been given with more or less regularity since the eighteenth century and the popularity of opera was greatly increased by establishment of permanent opera houses.

Traveling opera companies contributed greatly to the growing appreciation in opera in the United States, most prominent among these, the San Carlo Opera Company, directed by the genius of popular priced opera, Fortune Gallo, who has toured the country for twenty-seven years.

The San Carlo Opera Company will be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre Friday night, Saturday matinee and night, March 26 and 27. The operas to be given are: Friday night, "Madame Butterfly"; Saturday matinee, "Martha," sung in English, also a one-act ballet, "Venezia Life," and Saturday night, "Il Trovatore."

JOE E. BROWN AT THE PLAZA

Popular Comedian Plays Leading Role in "Earthworm Tractors"

Joe E. Brown comes to the Plaza Theatre today in "Earthworm Tractors," a First National production that is said to be his most hilarious comedy to date.

The picture is based on a series of stories written by William Hazlett Upson and which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. Joe brings to life on the screen the hero of these comedies, that blundering, and in his own egotistical estimation, natural-born super-salesman, Alexander Botts, who somehow always wins out in the end despite his egregious mistakes.

Others in the large and talented cast include Guy Kibbee, Joe's father-in-law to be; Olin Howland, father of the first love who lives; and a had forbidden his daughter's marriage to Joe; Dick Dora, Joe's rival for his love; Joseph Crehan, Sara Edwards, Charles Wilson, William Davidson, Irving Bacon and Stuart Holmes.

Lake Hill Wins Football Match

Lake Hill Mission displayed unexpected form in its engagement with the heavy St. Aldan's team at Reynolds' Road on Saturday afternoon, in a Sunday School Football League game.

Setting a fast pace, St. Aldan's scored an early goal, but this was the extent of their success. Lake Hill immediately equalized, half-time arranging, Lake Hill settled down to a productive combination game, and scored four more goals. Led by an active centre forward, who fed his wings judiciously, Lake Hill triumphed by 6 goals to 1 in the only game of this league.

A smooth-working half-back line and a stubborn defence repulsed all St. Aldan's efforts to add to their score. Druce scored three goals, Harker two and Warren one. P. J. Woodley refereed.

Irene Dunne At Atlas Theatre

Melvyn Douglas Opposite Her in "Theodora Goes Wild" Opening Today

Rosalind Keith, the girl with the biggest, darkest eyes in Hollywood, came to motion pictures through the film city's "showcase."

The "showcase," in the vernacular of screen folk, is the aggregate total of the many legitimate theatres strung along and bordering on Hollywood's famous Boulevard. Here many aspiring young players appear with the hope of attracting the eye of a producer, a casting director or a talent scout. That is exactly what Rosalind Keith did.

Later Miss Keith was engaged for the ingenue lead in the Columbia production of "Theodora Goes Wild," a sophisticated comedy starring Irene Dunne with Melvyn Douglas, now at the Atlas Theatre.

Fine Pictures At The Oak Bay

Dramatically revealing the secrets of the world's greatest jewelry centre, a district guarded as carefully as the National Treasury against the hordes of thieves lured from all over the world, "15 Maiden Lane," Twentieth Century-Fox's story of the famous Diamond Row will open at the Oak Bay Theatre tonight.

Cast in the role of a clever, silk-hatted crook daring enough to attempt a robbery the rest of the underworld considers far too risky, Cesar Romero achieves a polished performance in suavity and coolness.

The second feature is a beautiful color triumph, "Ramona," starring Loretta Young and Don Ameche.

Jessie Matthews Will Star Here

Jessie Matthews in her latest starring vehicle, "Head Over Heels in Love," will open at the Dominion Theatre tomorrow.

The dancing star of "It's Love Again" comes to town this time as a trim little Parisian who makes her living by entertaining in the street cafes of Montmartre, but who embarrases her male admirers no end by her exceedingly vivid temperament and her penchant for causing scandals in public. Jessie dances her way in and out of international complications with consummate skill, scoring an all-time high for rhythm in a specialty song-and-dance number produced in silhouette.

Mother's Attitude Toward Daughter

Dorothy Dix

Direct, But Don't Boss Her Too Much

A WOMAN asks what should be the attitude of a mother toward a daughter between the ages of fourteen and twenty. Every mother who has to deal with an adolescent daughter needs the wisdom of Solomon, the prophetic vision of a seer, the patience of Job and the firmness of a drill sergeant, plus a sense of humor that never fails. And, at that, she will still lack a few requirements.

She is tackling the most complicated and difficult job on earth; the one that requires the most finesse in handling. She has to guide, form, restrain, protect the most headstrong, determined, unreasonable, opinionated egotist alive; one who is resolved not to be changed, or balked, or interfered with in any way whatsoever. Particularly by her mother. That is some task, believe me. No wonder so many mothers fall in it.

Furthermore, the situation is complicated by every mother being knocked groggy with amazement by having gentle, biddable little Mary, who thought Mother was an oracle, suddenly turn into Mayme, who resents Mother's mildest suggestion and who considers her a doddering dodo who doesn't know anything at all. When Mary is twenty-four she will again regard Mother as a fountain of wisdom, but when she is fourteen she thinks any little addle-pated flapper knows more about what's what than Mother does.

However, hard as it is, God himself has laid the chore of piloting the between-age girl through the dangerous waters of adolescence in her mother's lap, and on how well she does it depends her happiness in this world and in the world to come. For if anything untoward happens to Mary, Mother is largely responsible for the disaster.

The first suggestion that I would make to the mother who has a hobble-dehoy daughter is to take her seriously, but not too seriously. Regard everything she does as important, because she is unconsciously starting on the path she is to follow through life, but don't make tragedies out of trifles. Don't look upon her as a moron because she does silly little things and has foolish aspirations.

Don't make an issue of rouge and blood-red nails. Don't refuse her a long, black velvet party dress if all the other girls are having them. She will get over her yearning for these things in a little while, and by your sympathy and understanding you will have established a bond of confidence that will stand you in good stead when you need to put the pressure on her later. She won't say "Mother always objects." She will remember that Mother always wanted her to do what she wanted to do unless it was wrong.

Remember that from fourteen to twenty a girl passes through a series of phases that are just as contagious as the measles that she catches from the other girls, but from which she will recover with no bad effects if she is carefully nursed through them.

The first of these attacks is the beauty craze. She spends long hours doing her hair up in the fantastic whirled affected by her favorite movie star. She goes clothes mad. Her brain is cut on the bias and frilled in the middle and she is ready to die if she can't have loud sport tops like the other girls wear. Her greatest desire is to look like a woman of forty and she considers her mother an inhuman monster if she doesn't let her paint herself up like a Jezebel.

String along with her through all of these vagaries. Don't scold her about being vain. Take an interest in her make-up and her clothes and show her how to make the most of herself. Give her a little of the flattery she craves. Many a mother loses her hold on her daughter by her continual criticism and fault-finding.

Next your daughter will go boy-crazy. She will think of nothing but boys and dates. She will monopolize the telephone and spend her time writing letters. Your house will simply swarm with adolescent youths.

Don't make the mistake of forbidding her to see them or think about them, for, if you do, you will simply send her out on the street to make acquaintances with boys you know nothing of. She will lie to you about going to places you never heard of. Let her have her dates at home, where you can keep an eye on her and know what she is doing and with what sort of lads she is associating.

Between fourteen and twenty she will think she is in love a dozen times and you will have to cure each case by diverting her attention to another boy. She will have the career craze and want to be a movie actress, or start a tea shop, or be an air stewardess, or what not. But finally she will settle down into being a nice sensible girl and go through with her daughter what you have gone through with her.

Monkeys and Apes

I—SOUTH AMERICA

Down in South America are monkeys which seem to like to be well known. At least they make so much noise that it would be hard for a person not to know they were around.

Spider monkeys are kept as pets by natives of South America. They are, in general, peaceful enough, but they have the habit of stealing. For that reason, their owners must be careful to keep valuable things out of their reach.

Another South American monkey is the ring tail. It is the kind most often taken about by organ grinders. (For Nature section of your scrapbook.)

Previously he had appeared with Lillian Russell, Dewolf Hopper, Otis Skinner, Maude Adams, Henry Miller and other noted players.

FROM GIRL TO WOMAN

CROWING girls are often sufferers from female irregularities, headache, backache or nervousness. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the vegetable tonic to give your daughter.

At such times, Mrs. A. C. C. of 175 Catherine St., St. Paul, Minn., writes: "When growing into womanhood, I was pale and thin, had no much appetite, suffered from headaches, pains in my back and cramps. Mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I took it until all feminine disturbance was corrected. Soon my appetite improved, I had better color and all pain as well as the nervous feeling disappeared. I think this 'Prescription' is a splendid medicine for growing girls." Quarantine Rules Will Be Changed

Ships From European and American Ports Will Not Be Required to Call at William Head, But Ships From Orient Ports Not Exempt

Ottawa, March 8.—New regulations designed to speed docking of ocean vessels bound for Canadian ports were published yesterday evening in The Canada Gazette.

The regulations provide that ships "bound for such ports as may from time to time be designated by the Department (of Pensions and National Health) may submit to the quarantine officer by wireless at the vessel's cost (however) information called for in such cases by the department."

They say "the quarantine officer shall upon every such submission instruct the vessel to proceed to its port of destination or state to such vessel the place and time where and when it shall be subject to quarantine inspection. Any vessel proceeding without inspection or such instruction to proceed shall be held to have contravened these regulations."

The regulations also provide the department may demand that a vessel clearing for Canada from an outside port obtain a bill of health endorsed by the official authority setting forth health conditions in the port of departure during the fourteen days before the vessel sails.

They provide masters or other ships' officials shall be liable to a penalty of not more than $400 for contravention of the regulations and that the vessel will be held liable for any such penalty imposed on its officers.

Further, officers failing to answer questions truthfully or submitting false information shall be liable to a penalty of not more than $200.

The above regulations, which will go into effect in a month or six weeks, will not apply to vessels reaching British Columbia waters from the Orient, it was stated by officials at the William Head quarantine station this morning.

The "Empress" and "President" liners, the Japanese passenger ships, Blue Funnel ships and all freighters arriving from across the Pacific will continue to drop anchor off William Head while the quarantine doctors

Huge Seizure Of Opium on Vessel

Associated Press
New York, March 8.—A raiding party of more than sixty United States federal and city officers seized 600 tons of opium, of a value estimated officially as high as $500,000, aboard the British freighter Taybank Saturday.

Eight men, including Oriental crew members and supposed land contact men, were taken into custody.

go aboard for medical inspection and reports from the ships' surgeons.

Vessels arriving from European and American ports, however, will be allowed to proceed to their destinations, provided they have first contacted officials at William Head by wireless.

Chief ports to be affected will be those on the Atlantic seaboard—Halifax, Saint John, Quebec and Montreal, where ships will be allowed to dock without quarantine inspection, unless there are large numbers of immigrants aboard or an epidemic has broken out at sea.

Her Days As a Wind Ship Are Over

Once the Star of Holland, shown above, surrounded by other relics of a glorious era of the sea, was a proud sailing ship and howled along the trade lanes of the world's oceans. Now she is preparing to come north from San Francisco Bay to Victoria to be converted into a big barge for the Island Tug and Barge Company. The Star of Holland has had four names. She was launched as the Homeward Bound from the Belfast plant of Harland and Wolff in 1885. Later she was the Otto Gildemeister and then the Zemindar. She was recently sold to Japanese scrappers by the Alaska Packers and was saved from that end by the local company. She is registered in Lloyd's at 2,301 tons, with a length of 292 feet, a beam of thirty-nine feet and a depth of twenty-three feet. Her home-port for many years now has been San Francisco.

Passenger Liner Is Badly Damaged TO BE BUSY

Ss. President Coolidge Must Be Repaired at San Francisco; Passengers Put Ashore and May Come Here to Sail

Associated Press
San Francisco, March 8.—Coast-guard and tugboat men fought the sea today for possession of the derelict tanker Frank H. Buck amid plans for a three-way investigation of her collision Saturday with the trans-Pacific liner President Coolidge.

Strong currents tugging at the tanker almost in the shadow of treacherous Golden Gate channel rocks were slowly dragging the almost submerged vessel closer and closer to the jagged shore.

The cutter Tahoe and a tug from the Associated Oil Company, owners of the tanker, pulled at the hulk in an effort to keep it in the clear.

The broken ship was far down by the head. Her bow was scraping channel-bottom slabs feet beneath the surface. Only her masts, superstructure, stern and stack showed above the water.

Tanker Captain Robert Kelly and a skeleton crew of six abandoned the ship Saturday night shortly after returning to it from the Coolidge, which quickly picked up the Frank H. Buck's crew after the crash.

Back at the Dollar Line piers, the Coolidge, badly stove-in at the bow, was temporarily out of commission. The company sent the 678 passengers ashore preparatory to moving the ship to repair docks.

Although the Dollar Line made no announcement as to disposal of passengers, they were informed they could go to Victoria or Vancouver and take a Canadian ship for the Orient, or await the sailing of another Dollar liner from here this week. The first Canadian sailing to the Orient is the Ss. Empress of Japan March 20.

Captain K. A. Ahlin of the Coolidge said his ship was moving only at three or four knots through the dense fog when the vessels met. Visibility, he said, was only about 200 feet.

Man Crushed By Boulder

Associated Press
Mount Vernon, Wash., March 8.—A 1,600-pound boulder, crushed Fred Sandell, twenty-one, to death yesterday while he and four others were exploring a tunnel sixty feet underground. The body was brought to the surface by means of ropes after twenty persons had labored six hours to remove the rock.

The party went into the natural tunnel, near Blanchard, fifteen miles north of here, to learn its depth. Sandell and Calvin Beeler, nineteen, went deeper than the others, Wayne Bullo, June Bullo and Celestine Lowe, all nineteen.

The huge rock rolled on Sandell, trapping him. Beeler went for help while Sandell screamed repeatedly, "Get that rock away."

He died while the twenty men whom Beeler obtained attempted to remove the boulder.

COACH LINES PLAN FARES FOR EASTER

Special low return fares to Vancouver Island points will be offered over the Easter holidays by the Vancouver Island Coach Lines.

Effective to all up-island points and on the Sidney and West Saanich routes, holiday return fares will be featured at the rate of single fare and one-quarter for the round trip.

The going journey may be started on any scheduled trip from Thursday morning, March 25, until Monday night, March 29, with the return trip to be completed by midnight Tuesday, March 30.

Sealing Fleet Heading North

St. John's, Nfld., March 8.—Half the population of St. John's turned out at the waterfront Saturday to cheer the Newfoundland northern sealing fleet as it cleared the harbor for its annual Arctic trip. Six vessels, with crews of 1,500 men, constituted the fleet.

Abram Keen, O.B.E., in command of sealing vessels for the last forty-six years, remained ashore for the first time in half a century. The eighty-one-year-old "commodore," still hale and hearty, announced his retirement last fall.

Passenger Liners and Freight Ships Will Keep Workers on the Move

The coming week will be a busy one at the Port of Victoria, with several big passenger liners and a large number of freight ships due. The lumber movement from Victoria, which has been rather slack in recent weeks, is expected to pick up during the next ten days.

First of the passenger liners is the Aorangi, due Thursday evening or Friday morning from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu.

Saturday morning will see the arrival from the Orient and Honolulu of the Canadian Pacific flagship Empress of Japan while that afternoon the American Mail liner President Jackson will sail from Victoria for the Orient.

Another ship due during the week from the Orient is the Tyndareus, expected here about Thursday morning. Yesterday evening at 8 o'clock she was 1,300 miles from Estevan, according to a message picked-up at the Gonzales Wireless Station.

The Nargenta, of the Royal Mail Lines, and the Pacific President, of the Furness Line, are among the arrivals from the United Kingdom this week. They will be here Thursday or Friday.

Tomorrow the Italian vessel Rialto is expected at Ogden Point to stow a parcel of Vancouver Island lumber for Europe.

The Ss. Princess Louise is expected to go around to the Esquimalt dry-dock tomorrow for annual under-water overhaul by Yarrows Limited.

The V.M.D. will dock the Ss. Princess Mary at Esquimalt this evening for propeller repairs. She will resume her run tomorrow.

The whaling fleet will be the first ship of the whaling fleet to be overhauled this year. She will go on the marine slipway at the Bay Street plant of the V.M.D.

Man Killed On Big Battleship

Canadian Press
Gibraltar, March 8.—Ordinary Seaman D. D. Smith was killed and three others seriously injured on board H.M.S. Hood Saturday when a mooring wire snapped as the battleship was being moored here.

TWO KILLED IN STORM AT SEA

Reports Also Say Seventy-four on Italian Liner Rex Injured During Gale

Associated Press
Genoa, Italy, March 8.—An informed source reported today that a passenger and a member of the crew of the Italian liner Rex, which docked here yesterday, were killed when the ship encountered a storm off the Azores.

The same source said he understood seventy-four persons among the passengers and crew were injured.

No official information was available and Italian newspapers were understood to have received instructions to disregard all reports of the liner's stormy passage.

Though reports of the deaths were current widely here, no one professed to know either the identity or nationality of the passenger reported killed.

The 51,000-ton Rex arrived in her home port yesterday after stopping Saturday in Naples. She sailed from New York February 27.

Associated Press
New York, March 8.—A radiogram from official Italian sources said yesterday a single gigantic wave which struck the Italian luxury liner Rex as she neared Gibraltar was responsible for the deaths of two persons aboard the ship.

The dead, a crew member and a third class passenger, were both in the forward section of the ship when the huge wall of water "came out of nowhere" and struck the starboard bow, the message said.

The radiogram said a number of persons were hurt but none critically. The one huge wave thundered after a day of what the ship's officers said was the worst weather they had ever experienced on the Atlantic.

Recovering from the blow, the Rex continued on its course undamaged, the Italian sources said.

NEW PLANE FOR BISHOP

Missionary Churchman Will Fly to Missions Near the North Pole

Associated Press
Buffalo, N.Y., March 8.—Through eyes weakened by the Arctic winter, a missionary bishop yesterday looked over the trim new plane in which he soon will fly back to the Canadian north.

When his eyes recover, Bishop Perre Pelaine expects to resume the life of an Arctic churchman in the far northwest. He took possession of his "missionary plane" here Saturday.

"You know," he said, looking out of the cabin window, "my territory goes all the way to the North Pole. He grinned through his black beard and added: "But I'll admit I don't often get up that way."

"I will use it to take buffalo and caribou meat, fish and other food into isolated missions during the winter starvation period, and to carry medicine," he said. "The plane will reduce trips from weeks to hours. It has skills for landing on snow and pon-toon boats for water."

An airplane saved the bishop's life last December when he was marooned in frozen wastes while on his way to his territory's eastern station, 1,150 miles east of the Mackenzie River.

The plane brought food and medical supplies to his party and a cried eight members back to civilization.
